

BOLD ROBBERY IN THE HIGHLANDS

The House of M. E. Vaillant Was Entered by Robber Who Took
All Portable Valuables

Superintendent Welch was notified last night about six o'clock that another daring daylight robbery had been committed in this city, this time the victim being M. E. Vaillant, of 116 Princeton street. The robbery was executed, it is thought, by the same party who entered the houses of R. J. Shepard and N. W. Norcross recently. The police have nothing on which to base a clue except the story given them by Mrs. C. A. Potter, of 122 Princeton street, who saw the thief plainly as he entered the premises of Mr. Vaillant. This is the first real clue that they have been able to obtain since the first of this series of breaks was reported. Yesterday afternoon between the hours of 1:15 and 3:15 the home of Mr. Vaillant was broken into by the mysterious thief. Every article of any intrinsic value was taken and the house ransacked from top to bottom in an effort to find everything of value on the premises. There was a small amount of money in the house and this was taken. The thief, as in the case of the Shepard break, gained entrance into the house through the back door.

ORDERS THAW BACK TO N.Y.

Gov. Felker Grants State's Petition for
Extradition of Fugitive---Case Now
Goes Into the U.S. Courts

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 8.—Governor Samuel B. Felker this morning granted the petition of the state of New York for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw, charged with conspiracy to escape from the asylum at Matteawan. The case now goes into the United States courts. Thaw's attorneys announced they would file immediately an amendment to their petition for a writ of habeas corpus now pending in the federal court. The original habeas corpus petition was based on the allegation that Thaw had been indicted for conspiracy by the Dutchess county grand jury and was suspended pending the governor's decision on the extradition. Because the extradition was granted on account of the New York county indictment it will be necessary to amend the habeas corpus petition to cover the indictment on which the requisition was granted.

Thaw Heard Decision

Thaw was present when Governor Felker announced his decision at the capitol. The governor's audience was composed of newspaper correspondents and attorneys representing the fugitive and the state of New York. Thaw will remain here in the custody of United States Marshal Nute and Sheriff Drew pending the federal proceedings. Governor Felker said in his statement in part: "In the matter of the application for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw, at present within the state of New Hampshire and an alleged fugitive from justice in the state of New York. The sovereign state of New York by its governor has demanded of the proper authority of this state the interstate rendition of Harry K. Thaw. A proper respect for the public interest manifested therein demands that I should state the views which form the basis of my decision."

Fugitive From Justice

"By the petition of Governor Glynn of New York and the accompanying papers, it appears that the fugitive in quest of the county of New York has duly returned into open court an indictment against Mr. Thaw. That is sufficient to warrant the arrest, arraignment and trial of the respondent if he may be found within the state."

He was unable to make any impression. He kicked to Princeton's 45 yard line. Baker made five yards before he was downed. Strout went through Harvard's center for ten yards. He was again entrusted with the ball and this time made five yards. A third try by the same player failed but two yards. Rain began falling heavily again.

ALD. BROWN WITHDRAWS

DECIDES NOT TO RUN FOR MAYOR TO SAVE CITY EXPENSE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

Alderman George H. Brown at 3 o'clock this afternoon announced that he had decided to withdraw from the mayoralty contest.

Mr. Brown says: "While it is still my ambition to be mayor, I feel that at the present time, although there would be no question of my election, that considering the great added expense an extra election for commissioner would entail and with the great number of candidates now running, complications would be produced on technical basis of charter and confusion result. Accordingly, I have concluded to withdraw."

MILL OPERATIVE INJURED

Narcissa Lafriere received a very painful injury this morning at the Lowell Weaving company, where he is employed when his right arm was drawn into a machine which he was operating. He was taken to the Lowell hospital in the ambulance and the injured member dressed. The accident occurred shortly before 7 o'clock.

PLAY GAME IN RAIN

Harvard and Princeton Clash
at Princeton, N. J., — Crimson
Lost Toss

UNIVERSITY FIELD, PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—Under weather conditions that were not the best Harvard and Princeton met this afternoon in their annual football battle. Rain fell quite heavily several times during the forenoon and at 1 p. m. when the groundkeepers finished removing the straw from the field, there was another heavy shower. The few spectators on the field at the time huddled under their umbrellas. The downpour was soon over and things brightened up. Then the crowd came in steady and poured into the big enclosure from the four corners of the field. Harvard was the favorite as the teams lined up for the fray.

The team had done well so far this season and the Princeton squad realized it would have to play a sterling game to win. Princeton coaches, however, expected to spring a surprise on the football champs. It was expected that Princeton would resort to much open field play to gain ground against Harvard's superior line work.

Harvard Squad Arrives
The Harvard squad, forty men, came on the field at 1:15 o'clock for a little practice to test out the field. All the men who may be called upon to do the punting and drop kicking practiced their specialties. The center rushes busied themselves snuffing the wet ball back to the quarterback. After gambling on the field for 15 minutes the Harvard players retired to their quarters. In the meantime the arriving spectators were entertained by a brass band stationed in the Harvard stand on the west side of the field. The lineup:

PRINCETON	HARVARD
Hammond, 1 c	O'Brien
Phillips, 1 t	Hitchock
Semmons, 1 g	C. Cowen
E. Trankman, c	C. Soucy
W. Swart, r g	Pennock
Ballin, r t	G. Gilman
Shea, r e	R. Storer
Glyck, q	q. Logan
Law, 1 h	1 h. Hardwick
H. Baker, r h	1 h. Bradley
Strout, f	1 f. Brickley

Officials—W. S. Langford, Trinitry; umpire, Nell Snow; Michigan; linesman, D. L. Fultz, Brown.

The first real cheer of the afternoon was brought forth when the Princeton team ran on the field from the southeast entrance of the grounds. Two minutes later the big Harvard squad came through the same entrance and were vociferously greeted.

STOLE FROM BABIES

FOUR DORCHESTER BOYS AMAZE
POLICE BY CONFESSION OF
SERIES OF THEFTS

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Four Dorchester boys, none of them yet out of knickerbockers, amazed the police today by their confession of a series of thefts and petty burglaries, ranging from store breaks down to stealing pocket-books from baby carriages.

The lads were caught in the downtown section today by an officer whose suspicions had been aroused by their appearance. When locked up in the city hall square station the boys weakened and before long each was unburdening himself of a long list of offenses. Each of the boys is said to have a previous police record.

MORTALITY OF LOWELL

For the week ending Nov. 5, 1913:

Population, 106,294; total deaths, 25;

deaths under five, 7; infectious diseases, 7; acute lung diseases, 3; diphtheria, 1; cerebro spinal meningitis, 1; tuberculosis, 5.

Mayor O'Donnell's ANNOUNCEMENT

HON. JAMES E. O'DONNELL

TO THE PEOPLE OF LOWELL:—

I hereby announce to you my candidacy for the office of mayor. It is my proud privilege and honor to have been your selection as the first mayor under the new charter, and during my term of office it has been my utmost concern to render to the people of Lowell the best that was in me, in the administration of the city's affairs.

In all that I have done, and in all that I have attempted to do, my primal thought was ever to conserve the integrity of our city and to perpetuate the good name which its people, its industries and its institutions already hold throughout the entire state.

I can affirm without fear of contradiction that Lowell, under our commission form of government, stands out pre-eminently as the best governed city, the most orderly city, and one of the soundest cities, financially, within our commonwealth, and as a proof of that assertion I ask you to compare Lowell with Lawrence, with Fall River, with Cambridge, with Lynn, Salem, Brockton or Taunton. Ask the bureau of statistics, and do not place credence in the empty utterances of those who are actuated only by their insane ambition to occupy public office at a cost even of besmirching the name of the people of Lowell, its institutions, its history and its best traditions; and of traducing the present good order and prosperity of its people.

I shall make no appeal to men's passions or prejudices; I shall seek no quarrel with any of my opponents, but I shall ever stand ready to defend the administration of the city's affairs during my term in office, and in doing so, I shall not stoop to vilification, slander or calumny.

From the temper already shown, however, by my opponents, in their wild scamper for the office of mayor, I am forced to conclude that their agitation is of the "holier than thou" type; and if that be so, I shall be prepared for them and I shall neither give quarter nor expect to receive it.

I stand squarely on my record and I make no claims which that does not substantiate. Under difficulties which only one in the chair of your chief executive knows, I have striven honestly to give you of my best, and if again selected to head the affairs of the city of Lowell, I shall do my utmost to fulfill the duties of mayor, fairly, honorably and efficiently.

Yours sincerely,
JAMES E. O'DONNELL

FORGOT ONE WIFE

Providence Optician Arrested and Held on Charge of Bigamy

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 8.—Frank J. Johnson, a Providence optician, who married Miss Sarah Callahan at Central Falls last May, told his first wife yesterday that he forgot he married her and that until she confronted him he never knew he was the father of three children. The first Mrs. Johnson believes that her husband is telling the truth, and her family physician apparently believes likewise, as both claim he is suffering from a peculiar mental ailment that causes him to wander and do things unknowingly.

The second Mrs. Johnson, or Mrs. Jackson, cannot believe that her husband was ever married before.

The result of it all is that Johnson is now under arrest, and unless he can prove to the authorities that the peculiar hallucinations that have caused him to wander in many and varied directions are due to a mental ailment, he may have to answer to a charge of bigamy.

When Johnson was confronted yesterday by his first wife he is said to have admitted that he was her husband.

Johnson has been living under the name of Frank J. Jackson. Sometime ago he went to work as an optician for a large Providence concern and this proved his undoing.

One of his employers happened to glance over the files of an optical journal and in an old issue he saw a photo of Johnson and an account of his disappearance. Quietly he began an investigation. He saw that Jackson looked like Johnson, and the similarity of names led him to feel certain that Jackson was Johnson.

The police were communicated with and Mrs. Johnson was notified. Yesterday, after talking with her husband, she said that once before during their marriage life he disappeared for three months. Upon his return, she said, he could not tell where he had been. This caused him to visit the family physician, she said. The doctor told her that Johnson suffered from a mental disease of some kind and she feels that her husband is telling the truth when he says he forgot he ever married her.

Mrs. Jackson at her home at 402 Smithfield avenue last night said she was dumfounded. She could not believe her husband had been previously married.

Johnson told his wife that after he disappeared he remembered nothing until he awoke one day and found himself living with a woman who was his wife. Even then, he said, he did not recall that he had a wife and three children living in Brooklyn.

CURLEY WARNS FITZ

SAYS BOSTON MAYOR CANNOT RUN FOR RE-ELECTION AND U. S. SENATOR LATER

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Congressman James M. Curley was around town last evening looking after his nomination papers for mayor.

"I don't know whether Mayor Fitzgerald is going to run or not," he said, "but I do know that he must make up his mind pretty soon and also that he cannot run for mayor and later for United States senator. Some of the rest of us must get a look in. We will not stand for one man hogging both jobs."

"Does that mean that you may be a candidate for United States senator?" asked the reporter.

"I'll cross that bridge when I come to it," was the congressman's answer.

It was said last night that Francis R. Bangs, whom the republican city committee has endorsed as the republican candidate for mayor, will decline the nomination. One of his close friends said he did want one of the nominations for the city council and that his supporters were peeved when they heard that the league had turned him down.

CRUSHED BY DRAY NEW FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

Brighton Teamster Was Killed by His Own Wagon

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—John Crawley of Hillside avenue, Brighton, after being thrown from the seat of a wagon he was driving on Marginal street, Chelsea, about 6 o'clock last evening, was run over, receiving injuries which resulted in his death a few hours later at the Frost hospital.

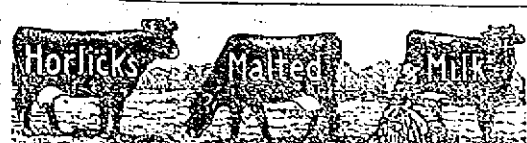

The wheels of the heavily loaded wagon passed over Crawley's chest, crushing him. Crawley was driving a wagon owned by the Boston Abattoir company and was returning to Brighton when the accident occurred. The forward wheels swerved suddenly upon striking an obstacle in the road and Crawley, who held a loose rein, was thrown into the street.

BEING WORKED OUT IN BOSTON—FIRST NUMBER WILL DENOTE THE LOCALITY OF FIRE

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—A new fire alarm system, based upon the division of the city into districts and involving the renumbering of all fire boxes in the city, so that the first number sounded shall indicate the section of the city in which the fire is located, is being worked out by Fire Commissioner Cole and Superintendent of Fire Alarms Fickett.

Thus all alarms in Charlestown would start with the figure 2, all in East Boston with the figure 3, and so on.

Minimum of System

Under the present system the boxes are located with a minimum amount of system and serial numbers are often far apart. If a box is not understood properly, it frequently causes the firemen great confusion.

It is proposed to divide the city proper into two sections, beginning at the foot of the Charlestown bridge with the dividing line along North Washington street, Hanover and Tremont to the centre of Massachusetts avenue. These two main divisions will be sub-divided into districts, each with its guide number.

All schools, theatres and institutions which possess private boxes will be included in the district numbers like any other box. All boxes with a zero in them will be eliminated. Old box 32, under the new system, will be known as 1433.

The plan is not yet perfected, and it is thought it will take several months to complete the system. The first new box to be placed will be 1231, at the corner of State and Kilby streets.

SEES GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

E. T. Ripley, president of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad company, speaking of railroads and the attitude which the government has assumed toward them, said that he believed government ownership was certain. Mr. Ripley said in part:

"A system whereby private individuals furnish money, but have practically no voice in the management may go along temporarily, and by previously acquired velocity, but cannot long endure."

"The certain result will be government ownership of railroads. Few want this now and practically everybody realizes it would be about the worst thing that could happen to the government."

"When railroads fail to give the public all its wants, as they will under present conditions, there will come the demand that the government step into the breach."

"But while it comes a little late it is pleasant to observe that the chairman of the interstate commerce commission has at last observed that congress and the states assisted by the body over which he so ably presides have at last brought railroads to the point where they can go no further."

"Do not infer that I am opposed to some regulation of railroads. Even the interstate commerce commission has with all its crudities and absurdities has by no means been an unmitigated evil. A rate making commission elec-ed by popular vote is manifestly and inevitably partisan, and the commission appointed by an executive officer is usually merely a reward for political activity, so chances for impartial judgment are small indeed.

"A commission appointed with a sole view to fitness and capability and for long terms with good salaries should be of much use to the public and railroads, this applying particularly to state commissions."

MAN FELL TO HIS DEATH

TRANQUIL GALLANT, OF ATTLEBORO DROPPED FROM WALL TO STREET AND WAS KILLED

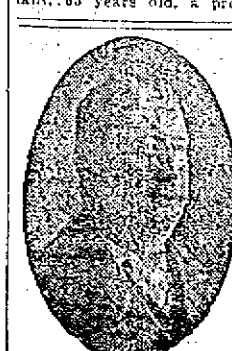

ATTLEBORO, Nov. 8.—Tranquil Gallant, 65 years old, a prominent optician, fell from a wall to his death at 257 West street, North Attleboro, was fatally injured last night when he fell off the retaining wall at the railroad station to the street below, and sustained a fractured skull and jaw.

He was removed to the Sturdy Memorial hospital and died two hours later.

Mr. Gallant had just arrived on the 1:17 p. m. train from Taunton, and was on his way home when the accident occurred. He was very well known in this section, and was prominent in many social and fraternal organizations. He is survived by a wife and son, Frank Gallant, a moving picture operator, of North Attleboro.

NEW INDUSTRY STRAY PHEASANT

Insulated Wire Factory Found Its Way to the City and Struck Hotel Window

A new industry will soon be started in Lowell at the old Stott mill in Howe street, and the name of the new concern will be the New England Cable Co. The plant, it is said, will be in running condition by the first of next month.

The new company, which is composed of Lowell men, will manufacture insulated wires and it is believed about 50 men will be employed at the outset. The company has leased a portion of the old Stott mill in Howe street, Belvidere, where it will occupy two floors, as well as desk room in the office of the Belvidere Woolen Mfg. Co. The officials of the company are Samuel Dunford, manager and treasurer and D. J. McDougall, president.

Whether, midst falling dew, While glow the heavens with the last steps of day, Far, through their rosy depths, doest thou pursue, Thy solitary way?

This you will recognize as the first verse in Bryant's literary gem, "To a Waterfall," and very vividly were these lines recalled to mind by Geo. Campbell in Central street yesterday when a stray pheasant flew by him and collided with a plate glass window in the office of the New American house.

The pheasant, however, was evidently not seeking the plucky brink of weedy lake, or margin of river wider but was utterly lost, confused, bewildered and confounded. How the plumb little pheasant found its way to the hotel through the plate glass window is known only to the "power" whose care teaches thy way along the pathless coast.

Mr. Campbell is a night officer at the Lowell jail and needless to say he was somewhat startled by the fanning of the bird's wings and its collision with the plate glass window. He picked the pheasant up and took it into the hotel where it received more than our bird's share of attention. Never was patron more tenderly cared for in this well appointed hostelry than was the lone wandering pheasant.

With the thought in mind that Harry Gonzales was game warden as well as fish warden, Mr. Campbell called him by phone and Harry was John-on-the-spot, as usual. Harry is fish warden, but not game warden, and he, in turn, sought the game warden but was unable to locate any of them. After failing in his endeavor to locate a game warden he telephoned direct to the state house and got in communication with the chief deputy warden.

The latter authorized Mr. Gonzales to liberate the bird and Mr. Gonzales, accompanied by Mr. Campbell, took the pheasant to East Chelmsford. Although the pheasant struck the plate glass window with considerable force the bird did not sustain any injuries and its flight from Mr. Gonzales' hands was aided by a third party, Miss Emma Suttle, whose home is in East Chelmsford. Mr. Gonzales chose East Chelmsford as the place to liberate it as he knew that pheasants are quite plentiful there.

BRENNAN CONGRATULATED
Hon. Joseph Hubbard Has Sent the Following Courteous Note to John W. Brennan, Elected Representative
Lowell, Mass., Nov. 5, 1913.
Friend John: You have made a good fight and have won a good victory. I want to congratulate you on your success. I can help you in any time I can help you in your legislative work regarding your district, or otherwise, I will be at your service.
With best wishes I beg to remain, Yours truly,
Jos. H. Hubbard.

ELKS MEMORIAL SUNDAY
Memorial Sunday will be celebrated by the Lowell order of Elks on Dec. 7 at the Opera House and all those interested in the organization will be admitted without tickets of any description.
The present district attorney, John J. Higgins, himself an Elk, will deliver the eulogy.

NEW HYDRANT INSTALLED
A new hydrant was yesterday installed at the corner of Rogers and High sts. Instead of the one that was broken yesterday in an automobile accident. For about 30 minutes after the accident the water flowed from the hydrant down the Rogers street hill to a torrent that tore up the sidewalk. The water was finally shut off by the water department.

TO SETTLE CAR STRIKE
INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—A proposition for the settlement of the car strike here, submitted by Gov. Ralston, was accepted by the street railway officials this afternoon. It now goes to the labor officials, and the governor said he believed it would be approved. The proposal provides for arbitration but no mention is made of recognition of the union.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES

Plans Being Made for Contests in 1914—Americans Very Successful This Year

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—With the echoes of the most successful season of international competition in the history of American sport still faintly heard, plans are being made for a still greater series of contests in 1914. Not satisfied with the winning or retention of the tennis, polo, golf, motor yacht, balloon and rifle trophies, the American athlete and sportsman is preparing to broaden the list before another 12 months shall have rolled around. Out of nine competitions of international character or entry the United States representatives won six, lost two, and did not enter the ninth. The two defeats came in the motor boat race and the women's golf tournament, both of which were won by English entrants.

Looking forward to 1914 the sporting calendar already contains tentative dates for another round of Davis tennis and international polo. Sir Thomas Lipton's fourth attempt to lift the America's cup will be a feature of the year in sport. The English amateur and professional golfers will again invade the states and American entries are assured for the English championships. The winning of the balloon race trophy assures a renewal of the air classic here next autumn. The Amateur Athletic union will send a team of athletes to Athens for the local cycle Olympic games to be held there next spring and other minor international competitions, such as canoeing, archery and cricket, are assured.

In fact, the spirit of international competition can be said to continue without interruption, since several American teams are preparing to leave for foreign shores this month. The two professional baseball teams, representing the major leagues in their round-the-world tour, will undoubtedly attract wide attention, but the Giants and White Sox will not be the only American athletes representing their country in foreign competition during the next few weeks. While the professional baseball players will have greater numerical strength when they depart from Vancouver on Nov. 19, the Amateur Athletic union track and field team and several American tennis players will also be followed with interest in their invasion of Oriental and Australasian fields. The athletes are scheduled to sail for Melbourne on Nov. 12, and William Johnston, Elia Fottrell and possibly one or two other California tennis experts will leave for the Orient about the same time.

The chief object of Johnston's and Fottrell's trip is to play in both the doubles and singles matches of the tennis championship of the Orient tournament to be held at Manila Jan. 3 to 12. This tournament is of more than usual importance this season because of the high class entry list expected. The leading players of Australia, Japan, China and the Pacific coast have been invited to compete and to date the percentage of acceptance has been most encouraging. Johnston and Fottrell will also visit Honolulu, Yokohama, Shanghai, Kobe and Nankai during their tour playing practice and exhibition matches wherever possible.

Camera in Sports
The camera is rapidly earning a place of importance in athletics and sport competition both in America and abroad. No contest or match of real interest goes unphotographed, and the readers of newspapers and magazines are daily brought face to face with the heroes of the diamond, football field, tennis court and aquatic sports. During the past few seasons, however, the lens has been found capable of affording a more useful field in the realm of amateur pastimes and recreations. Photographs of racquet, maschie, or can can see himself as others see him with faults in playing form clearly illustrated.

This ability to depict the strong and weak points of individuals and teams in sports and games has been discovered to be of much help to coaches and instructors. Consequently the camera is being constantly called in action by those who direct the activities of the college, club and unattached athlete. Photographs of the crews in training at Cornell and Columbia are taken each season and shown on the canvas in enlarged form while the coaches point out faults in watermanship. The same system is used in the development of several of the big varsity football teams.

Even the moving picture machine is found of assistance. The German Olympic commission, which recently spent a month investigating the American athletic system, took back reels of films showing some of our leading athletes in action. Pictures of one of the leading United States tennis players were taken last spring to prove to England that he did not foot fault in serving. Perhaps in years to come it will be possible for a competitor to rise to the pinnacle of sporting fame unopposed except by the films which will show him his faults as compared to those of the competitor who is considered the final word in perfect playing form.

Yale and Princeton
When Yale alumni gather at New Haven a week from today for the annual Princeton-Yale football game, the former students will almost to a man devote a portion of their time to an inspection of the mammoth Yale stadium now under construction, almost directly across the street from the scene of the gridiron battle between the Eli and Tiger elevens. Rapid progress has been made in the construction of the "Blue Bowl" as the stadium has been facetiously dubbed by members of a flippant generation, and the graduates will be able to secure an excellent idea of the final appearance of the stadium as it will be thrown open to them for the Yale-Harvard game late in the autumn of 1914.

The stadium, which will be of the sunken type similar to the Syracuse university structure, is expected to seat about 60,000 spectators and is a contracting proposition of considerable magnitude. The excavating work has been completed and the wall surrounding the entire field is well under way. More than half of the 32 tunnels which pierce the walls for entrance and egress of spectators are finished and the structure as a whole is beginning to take shape. The contracts for the seats and finishing features of the stadium are ready and will be open for bids shortly. Incidentally, the term "Bowl" is likely to be officially adopted since David Daggett, secretary of the committee of 21 in charge of the building of the stadium, states:

"The word 'amphitheatre' does not quite express the idea of the structure, as Greek amphitheatres did not have seats below the level of the ground; the building is neither oval nor circular, but elliptical. The same objections will apply to 'arena,' which has been often suggested. The arena in a Roman amphitheatre applied only to the area on which the shows were executed, and this was generally sandbed; the name was derived from that portion of the ground.

"The word 'bowl' is an English name and seems to me to be particularly descriptive of this structure, because although the use of the word is various in its applications, it was originally intended to apply to a concave vessel, inasmuch as our playing space is approximately 26 feet below level of the ground, the space having been scooped out, the word seems peculiarly applicable. The word 'bowl' has the advantage of being short and suggestive of the general appearance of the structure looking at it from the top down."

STUDENT LOSES CASE

SON OF CHIEF JUSTICE RUGGS ARGUED INJUNCTION CASE IN SUPERIOR COURT

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—A Harvard law school student appeared in the superior court, equity motion sessions, yesterday afternoon to argue a case which has been taken up by the Harvard Legal aid bureau, an association which furnishes aid free of charge for persons who cannot afford to pay for professional lawyers.

The student was Charles B. Iugge, president of the bureau, and incidentally son of the chief justice of the Massachusetts supreme court. He lost the first skirmish in his first case, but the attorney for the opposing side admitted that he gave him a close fight.

Late Thursday evening the Harvard legal aid bureau received a hurry call for help from Thomas A. Hill, who said that his two neighbors were getting out an injunction to prevent him putting up a fence and digging holes on his own land, which he had bought from the town of Watertown at a tax sale some years ago.

The hearing for a temporary injunction was scheduled for the following morning, and Mr. Hill was afraid that it would go by default if he did not have someone to present his side.

The bill claimed that Harry G. Smith and Mrs. Daniel McLean, Mr. Hill's two neighbors, owned a right of way over the land which Mr. Hill had bought from the town, that Mr. Hill was digging up the ground, putting in posts, piling up stones and threatening to break the water pipes under the ground. The petitioners asked for a temporary injunction pending the settlement of the suit.

Young Iugge hurriedly looked up some precedents in the Massachusetts reports, and appeared in court yesterday morning before Judge Charles F. Jenney of the superior court to oppose the granting of the injunction. He pointed out that the courts of the commonwealth have declared that temporary injunctions should only be allowed in cases of emergency, and that in this case he should prove that the two plaintiffs had not been in the habit of using the alleged right of way more than once a month on the average.

Judge Jenney thought otherwise, however, and allowed the injunction. The case will come up for hearing again on Dec. 1, on the merits of the injunction.

SAY DEMOCRAT WON

STATE COMMITTEE CLAIM DEFEAT OF EBEN KEITH, REPUBLICAN, FOR COUNCILLOR

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—On the canvass of returns from the first councillor district made by the democratic state committee it is claimed that Charles C. Connor of New Bedford may have defeated Councillor Eben S. Keith of Hopkine for re-election.

The entire vote of the district has not as yet been officially canvassed, but with about 20 towns missing the results show, Eben S. Keith, republican, 12,074; Charles C. Connor, democrat, 12,514; and Charles H. Bassett, progressive, 514.

MANAGER GRAY COAL CONSUMED

Of the Lowell Baseball Team Goes to Columbus, Ohio Figures Compiled by Smoke Inspector

Manager Jimmy Gray of the Lowell baseball team left today for Columbus, Ohio, where the representatives of all the baseball organizations in the country will meet next week for their annual conference. Mr. Gray will be accompanied on the trip by Eugene J. McCann, manager of the New London team, from whom a telegram was received late this afternoon saying that all arrangements had been completed for the journey and asking the Lowell manager to meet him in New York tomorrow night.

The Lowell team will be greatly in need of material for its next year's club, and Manager Gray's trip is partly for the purpose of snapping up any likely looking propositions which he may find. The board of arbitration, which also sits at the same time in Columbus, has a case of Mr. Gray's under advisement and it is thought that the verdict will be returned next week.

Smoke Inspector Riley has compiled interesting figures on the quantity of coal consumed daily by the principal corporations of this city, and the same are very astonishing especially to one who has never stopped to think how much of the fuel is being railroaded in the Spindito City. It is being estimated that the large manufacturing plants of Lowell burn more than 700 tons of soft coal for six days in a week and 502 weeks in a year, or a total of about 35,400 tons yearly.

However, this does not mean that this is all the fuel burned in Lowell for power purposes, for the various wood working plants consume the biggest part of their wood shavings, while the shoe shops, or at least several of them run their boilers with leather shavings and very little coal.

The corporation consuming the most coal daily is the Merrimack Mfg. Co., which burns about 110 tons of soft coal each working day. The other large consumers and the amount of coal they consume are as follows: Boot mill, 50 tons; Hamilton Mfg. Co., 45 tons; Lawrence Mfg. Co., 45 tons; Appleton Co., 45 tons; Tremont & Suffolk mill, 40 tons; Massachusetts mill, 40 tons; Bigelow Carpet Co., 35 tons; Bay State Electric Light Corp., 35 tons; American Hide & Leather Co., 20 tons; Lowell Bleachery, 22 tons; Shaw Stocking Co., 14 tons; Bay State Woolen Co., 20 tons; Middlesex mills, 15 tons; Waterhead mills, 15 tons; Massachusetts Mill, 10 tons; Saco-Lowell shop, 5 tons; and over 40 other small plants using from two to seven tons daily.

MAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Waltham Visitor Was Shot by Friend—He Was Visiting on Grand Street

A man named John Lynskey of Waltham was accidentally shot through the abdomen last night by a Mr. Elliott, while visiting at the home of the latter, 82 Grand street this city. Mr. Elliott was taking the gun from a bureau drawer when it accidentally went off. The bullet entered the right side of Mr. Lynskey's abdomen, penetrating the intestines, as examination at St. John's hospital later showed. Lynskey was able to walk to the home of Dr. E. G. Livingston with the assistance of two friends, and the doctor after an examination, sent for the ambulance. The injured man was conveyed to St. John's hospital. There an X-ray photograph was taken and the bullet, located in this way, was removed. Mr. Elliott was exhibiting two revolvers to young Lynskey and the latter was holding one of them at the time.

The injured man is said to be employed by the Armstrong-News Co. on one of the trains which passes through this city.

At the hospital, this morning, the authorities reported Mr. Lynskey as resting very comfortably.

NEW ART WINDOW

INSTALLED YESTERDAY IN THE CHAPEL OF THE NEW ST. PETER'S ORPHANAGE

The chapel of the magnificent new St. Peter's orphanage in Stevens street was yesterday beautified by the installation of six new stained glass windows of artistic and appropriate design. Five of these are located in the apse of the chapel, in attractive array. These were the gift of the members of St. Elizabeth's Guild, one of the oldest and best established charitable organizations in Lowell which has always manifested a deep interest in the progress of the new orphanage. The sixth window is a large one, lighting the body of the chapel. It was the gift of a friend of the orphanage. The chapel is a beautiful little edifice and its attractiveness has been greatly increased by the erection of these artistic windows.

LOCAL MOTOR CAR NEWS

Sawyer Carriage Co. Building Big Trade—The Energetic Dealers Begin an Early Campaign

The local automobile dealers are now, it appears, preparing a campaign as a forerunner of the late winter opening of the big 1914 demand on the part of the people of this city. Needless to say, this is one of the most important factors in the business and the dealer who gets his car most before the people and most talked about by enthusiasts is bound to enjoy a successful season if he "has the goods." Of course a right publicity campaign can only be successfully accomplished by the dealers who "have the goods," and no others should attempt it.

There is a certain advantage in going about in a demonstrator car among prospective purchasers whose names are obtained in various manners, and trying to interest them in the purchase of a certain make of automobile so that when they come to decide in the spring they will remember the dealer who called upon them. This personal method has its advantages but the number of people who can be reached in this way is limited. In business and salesmanship a limit of this kind is a dangerous thing and must be eliminated before progress can be assured. The other fellow might call on and "land" a customer whom a certain dealer intended to see before the latter has a chance to include him in his canvass. The dealers must get their arguments before all the people at this time; they must have an effect upon buyers long before the most active season opens, accepting the large volume time the salesman can experience what they call the dull season. A large number are realizing that fact now, and in the auto page of The Sun are conducting an effective campaign. That this auto page is read by the people interested in motor cars and by many others in whom an interest may be aroused cannot be denied.

A Progressive Manufacturer
The writer, while making the rounds of the dealers yesterday, called at the Sawyer Carriage company in Worthen street and was surprised to learn of the extent of the business of that progressive plant. Mr. Chandler, conductor of the automobile page man on a brief tour of inspection of his factory. What is of the greatest interest to the readers of this page is the automobile department which is situated in a special building and is the largest of the city, and which does a remarkably large business. Here every detail of auto repairing is attended to in a competent manner by skilled workmen.

CONVICTS IN ROAD WORK

THIRTEEN STATES PASSED LAWS IN THIS REGARD DURING THE PRESENT YEAR

Thirteen states passed laws during the present year allowing the use of convicts in the construction and repair of highways, according to a compilation by Dr. E. Stagg Whitin, assistant in social legislation in Columbia university, and chairman of the executive committee of the national committee on prison labor. They are Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, New Jersey, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin. As many other states had previously passed similar legislation, but few of the 48 states have not seen the wisdom of using prisoners to build and maintain public roads.

West Virginia and Iowa are the two states whose laws regarding the working of convicts on highways are the most prominent. So anxious was the governor of the former to secure an effective law that he came to New York, and, with the assistance of representatives of the national committee on prison labor, of the road department of Columbia university and of the legislative drafting bureau worked out bills making compulsory the employment of convicts on the roads.

The West Virginia law authorizes the county courts to make appropriations out of road funds for convicts' work; it states that the court shall sentence any male person over 16 to road-work instead of to the county jail; persons charged with misdemeanors unable to furnish bail shall work on the roads; and, if acquitted when tried, shall be paid 50 cents a day for each day's work they perform; justices of the peace shall sentence to work on the roads persons convicted of crime whom otherwise they would send to the county jail.

Another feature of the West Virginia law is the establishment of a state road bureau to supervise any plans proposed by a county for using prison labor in road-building. The plans approved, the county shall apply to the board of control for the number of prisoners required, and shall state the length of time they shall be needed. The board shall, to far as possible, give equal service to each of the counties, and shall determine which prisoners may be assigned to such work. The warden is to provide suitable and moveable quarters, which shall be built, where possible, by convict labor. The convicts shall remain under direct control of the warden, their provision of the road bureau.

In Iowa, the board of control of the state institutions, with the advice of the warden of any penal institution,

Over this smaller building are the offices of the plant. The main floor of the big building is the blacksmith and machine department. Here forgings are made for many prominent Lowell firms. Springs are made and repaired, bent axles put into shape and all other similar work done on carriages and automobiles. On the second floor is the woodwork portion of the manufactory where the bodies of the carriages are made. This is a most interesting department and some excellent specimens of the work may be seen. Next step is the making and fitting of the trimmings, tops, curtains, etc., for both automobiles and carriages, and the Sawyer company has a large trade in this branch. The top floor of the building is where the carriage and auto painting is done. This is a specialty of the plant, especially at this time of the year, when many will soon place their cars in storage for the winter.

The Stewart truck is sold by the Sawyer company and with great success. The qualities of this truck are well recognized and have placed it among the leaders. It has made a big hit with Lowell merchants.

Boiek "Six" Here
The Buick "six" demonstrator car was in the city yesterday at the Buick company salesrooms in Appleton street and in the short space of time it remained in this city was seen and admired by a large number of enthusiasts. Visitors were pleased with demonstrations. The car is a fine piece of automobile construction and is a Buick that should be even more popular than are the other models, which are seen everywhere about the city today. The Buick company of Lowell will have its own "six" to show its many customers.

New Goods at Pitts
Mr. Pitts has received a large new stock of automobile equipment, such as lamps, clocks, etc., for the Christmas trade and anticipates a large demand in this line. He will place this line forward and is confident that it is one which will appeal to those who are looking for sensible and useful gifts for their friends. The stock includes many novelties and improvements.

That Motor Mart

The sale of the Ford cars goes on constantly and with business as great as it is at the present time which is looking up as the best season by many dealers. Mr. Rochette, the proprietor of the Lowell Motor Mart, is confident that this spring's sales will constitute a record.

may permit able-bodied male prisoners to work on the roads. The law specifically states such labor shall not be leased to contractors. A prisoner opposed to such work, or whose character and disposition make it probable that he would attempt escape or be injured, is not to be worked on the highways. Although the prisoners are under the jurisdiction of the warden while building or repairing roads, their work is supervised by the state highway commissioner. Prisoners employed on the highways of Iowa receive each part of their earnings, above the cost of their keep, as the board of directors of the state highway department may see fit to give to their dependent families.

Before Iowa passed her present prison law, George W. Cosson, attorney general of Iowa, and a member of the national committee on prison labor, made a thorough investigation of the prisons of his own and other states, and strongly denounced the contract system under which the prisoners were employed up to that time. Mr. Cosson drew up the road bill, and is of the opinion it will do much to drive the contract system out of the state.

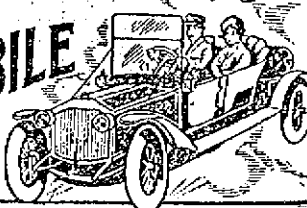

ECONOMY OF MOTOR CAR
PROMINENT AUTOMOBILE MAN POINTS OUT SAVING BY MOTOR DRIVEN VEHICLES
"That the motor car represents an economic saving there is no denying," said a prominent dealer recently. "It has been proven repeatedly that it is a time, labor and money saving vehicle. It has been demonstrated in public tests as well as by every day usage that the motor car is a utility vehicle as well as one for pleasure. A utility motor car is not always the so-called commercial vehicle nor the familiar motor truck. Any motor car, whether it is fitted with a roadster, touring or limousine body, so long as its owner uses it for utility purposes in any manner is a utility vehicle and represents an economic saving."

"If the banker uses his car to quickly carry him to his office then that car is making money for him. It is saving his time and time is money. This not only applies to the banker, but to the merchant, doctor, farmer, real estate dealer, or to any other person who uses his car in any way that is not strictly for pleasure."

"It is this phase of the industry that has made it leap with unprecedented rapidity—that has caused all manufacturing records to be smashed and created an industry that its like has never been seen in the industrial world."

Members of American Automobile Asso. to Gather at Richmond

Historic Richmond is preparing for the annual meeting of the American Automobile association, to be held December 1, 2 and 3, in a manner which insures that the twelfth yearly gathering of the National organization of motor-car users will be the most notable in its history.

President Preston Delvin of the Virginia State Automobile association and President-elect C. E. Watkins of the Richmond club are chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the local committee of arrangements which intend that the visitors shall see the southern city at its best.

In the official call that has gone forth to the A. A. A. clubs and members generally, President Laurens Enos directs attention to the fact that the accredited delegates may be accompanied by as many members of clubs as can respond to the "On to Richmond" call so insistently set forth by the Virginians. Says President Enos: "I am confident this visit to the Southland will be thoroughly enjoyable, for Richmond's historic surroundings and well-known hospitality—in which your wives and daughters are cordially invited to participate—will supply a combination of rare promise and certain fulfillment."

Monday will be devoted to morning and afternoon business sessions, including the reading of the annual report, appointment of the nominating committee, and addresses relating to the most important work of the association. On Wednesday morning there will be the election of officers and the consideration of new business.

On Monday evening an entertainment of a distinctly southern character will be provided by the Richmond committee. Tuesday will be given over to seeing Richmond and vicinity, with the annual banquet that night at the Jefferson hotel, in which the business meetings will also take place.

Speakers of prominence at the banquet will include Governor Nann, Governor-elect Stewart, Mayor Ainslie and Henry W. Anderson, whose talks on federal aid in highway progress have always been enthusiastically received. Other ex-presidents of the A. A. A.—Chase, Lee, Hotchkiss, Spear and Hooper—will be given an opportunity to participate in the rapid-fire oratory.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

OPERA HOUSE

"The best yet" was the verdict of the large audience at the Opera House last night, after seeing the big Wagner opera, "The Valkyrie." This visualization of story of Sir Walter Scott's beautiful poem contains a tale of adventure that you will surely enjoy. The atmosphere of the beautiful hills of Scotland in the strenuous fight of the heroes is perfectly carried out the scenes throughout being exceptionally beautiful. The island scene, or the home of Douglas, cost over a thousand dollars in scenery alone, this does not count the time and expense of arranging the scene artistically and appropriately for the action of the play, which is the achievement of the highest order can be employed in this work. This feature, which will be offered for the last time tonight, is not only a classic but one that will delight the young and old alike.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
One of the most novel animal acts in the world today will be seen at the B. F. Keith theatre next week. Prince Emil, a Russian and one of the most courageous animal trainers in the world, will appear with his eight trained polar bears, which have been trained by him in the little Russian village of Schirata, in the province of Arty Siberia.

This act appears at the Keith Boston theatre this week, and much comment has been aroused by it. There have been brown, black and cinnamon bears trained and brought onto the stage in past years, but nobody has ever seen a polar bear put through stunts. If a circus were to possess one he is usually pacing back and forth within a small iron cage. But he doesn't do any stunts.

The bears which Prince Emil have are Wrangell island polar bears. Four of them were caught as cubs by the prince some seven years ago, and the other four are their offspring. Originally they were twelve in all, but since arriving in America four have fallen ill and have died. They came here during the heat of the summer and it was with difficulty that the present outfit was nursed along to colder weather. A double horse load of ice has been ordered from the Gage cold storage plant so that the bears appear at the theatre.

Polar bears are less intelligent and docile than the black, brown or cinnamon bears, which are generally shown. They are also much larger, averaging in size a mammoth, grizzly. They are, when full grown, about ten feet in length and weigh nearly 1000 pounds. They are very fierce fish eaters in their native habitat they swim a great deal and are frequently seen on ice floes. They attack a human being and bear, which are generally shown. They are also much larger, averaging in size a mammoth, grizzly. Norine Carman and her six Morris minstrels will appear during the week. Miss Carman is endowed with grace, beauty and ability and her elaborate costumes.

minstrel first part will prove a well-comedy, a dramatic offering and the ever-popular Mutual Weekly. As a special attraction at the Sunday afternoon and evening concerts Manager Carroll has secured, at extra cost, the great motion picture shown by the Catholic Missionary Congress, recently held in Boston. Church dignitaries from all over the world were in attendance at this gathering and they will be shown at the different services and meetings held at that time. Besides this there will be a series of refined vaudeville acts and other motion pictures.

THE PLAYHOUSE
Lowell amateurs have their friends, judging by the crowds turned away from the Playhouse Friday night. The place was packed to the doors, and Manager Tebbetts was forced to discontinue the sale of tickets. It was an entertainment well worth while. Of course, it included the regular acts and moving pictures, and they found ample appreciation, but the real treat came in the presentation of the amateurs. Some of them were classy, some weren't, but it was a good natured crowd, and at no time was heard that dreaded cry, "the hook." Messrs. Jones and Flinnahan, roller skate artists, were head liners as fun makers, and were awarded first prize. They displayed versatility by boxing and skating simultaneously, with Flinnahan adjudged the champion.

For Sunday, Manager Tebbetts announces concert at 8 o'clock and evening by the artists that have been billed for the past three days, and on Monday an all-new bill will be put on, as follows: Jelly Fanning Hatfield, comedy in a playlet, "A Manager's Troubles"; Odette, accordion wizard; Earl & Bartlett, in a farce entitled, "O'Brien from Galway"; Marr and Robinson, acrobatic comedians; four good pictures. Performances will be given afternoon and evening.

THE KASINO
Miner's tonight and Monday night at the Kasino, with Doyle's orchestra playing Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, is the program for the coming week, and people who enjoy dancing under ideal conditions will avail themselves of the opportunity offered. The Kasino standard continues as established over a year ago, and the place set has had many followers. These is just one Kasino.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT
Tinker's novelty dance orchestra will play a return date at Associated hall, Tuesday evening, Nov. 11. Hear the brass marimbaphone, and male quartet, and also electric sander bells, saxophones and a trio on organ chords. They carry $3000 worth of musical instruments. Every music lover and dancer in Lowell should hear Laura B. Tinker playing seven different instruments. Dancing starts at 8 p. m. Public invited. Adv.

HARVESTER SUIT

Although the great legislative questions which the administration has been interested in since the election of President Wilson have kept all other matters in the background as national measures, no one has lost sight of the fact that the term of the chief executive as governor of New Jersey was especially noted for its wealth of anti-trust laws. What the president did then in state politics may be taken as an indication of what he would wish to do in national politics, and the great legal struggle between the federal government and the international harvester company which is nearing completion is especially interesting as pointing to what the attitude of the present administration will be towards anti-trust legislation. In the harvester suit briefs have been filed in St. Paul by opposing counsel and the long and bitter struggle enters on what promises to be its last stage.

The department of justice is seeking the dissolution of the Harvester trust because of alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, but the accused corporation denies that it is a monopoly, and points to the evidence of farmers and "independents" to prove that no trust exists and that there has been no defiance or evasion of the law. This may be partly true, but it has never been denied that at the time of its organization the harvester company controlled from eighty-five to ninety per cent. of the total harvesting business. What its status is at the present time is still to be settled by the higher courts. When it was organized in 1902, it brought five manufacturing concerns under one head, and consequently controlled the agricultural implement business not only of the United States but of the world.

The case of the government is summed up in the following paragraph from the brief of the federal authorities:

"Under the undisputed facts the formation of the company was not normal and natural development of the commerce in harvesting machines. It was the child of one not theretofore interested in the business, George W. Perkins, a banker and insurance man, who stepped in at an opportune time to bring the rival manufacturers together. He and others, by means of a combination in corporate form, destroyed competition and entrenched monopoly."

In this there is no attempt to make the accusation look slight. It hits out straight from the shoulder, and it shows the government attitude now to be entirely different from that which brought down on Theodore Roosevelt during his last term in office the accusation of holding up the harvester suit. It also suggests almost unconsciously the part that the name of George W. Perkins, acting for J. P. Morgan, took in more recent political movements. Now that President Wilson has taken up the suit begun by President Taft, we may be certain that there shall be no cessation of government activity against the trusts during the present administration. If the harvester trust is a reality and maintains an unlawful monopoly on the manufacture of agricultural implements, we may expect in the near future the same degree of condemnation that the courts gave to the oil and tobacco trusts, but we hope that the means to check the evil will be more effective than in recent trust cases where by complying with technicalities the same old game went on in a new guise.

HAND-MINDED CHILDREN

A bulletin just issued by the Great States bureau of education gives great prominence to the work of the elementary industrial school of Cleveland, Ohio, which has divided children into two groups labelled respectively "hand-minded" and "language-minded" with more truth than elegance. The government notice sums up the work of this educational establishment in the words of one of its pupils, who said: "I like this school because I never could have learned anything, and I am more use in the world."

This industrial school was established in Cleveland on the bold assumption that there are two types of children and that each is deserving of equal opportunity. One type takes to books and the other does not. Formerly these who could not learn from books or who did not learn as quickly as their apparent intelligence warranted, were called lazy or dull or incorrigible, but in Cleveland they are called "hand-minded." The school authorities have taken recognition of the fact that a great proportion of the children were losing their time in trying to absorb merely abstract intellectual training and they divided the school time so that these who cannot keep up in the "language-minded" department have practical work to do such as mechanical drawing, woodwork, shopwork, etc. for the boys and sewing, shopwork, domestic economy, etc. for the girls. Before the introduction of this school half the children in Cleveland left school in the sixth grade, but under the new arrangement this condition is much improved. This school does not specify in vocational or trade school work but at the end of their course the pupils may take a special course in some practical branch if they so desire as a preparation for specific employment.

In speaking of the work of this institution, Prof. Hallmann of the government educational bureau said: "The ordinary school was born among and for the language-minded. This one-sidedness still clings to the school and it is hard to eradicate." The Cleveland school may not be the solution of a difficulty that is felt universally, but the plan is worthy of wide discussion, particularly in this state where the recent juvenile laws make the question of educational problems for the young more pertinent than ever.

CITY ELECTION NEXT

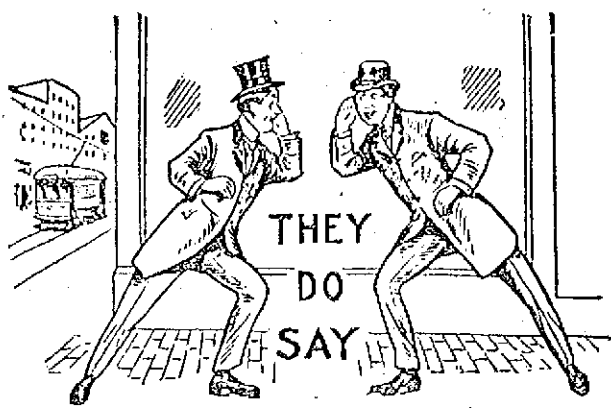

Now that the state election is over and gone we may give our undivided attention to the coming city election and it is to be sincerely hoped that as good citizens and honorable men our candidates may apply the lessons that were plainly written in the recent election and its culmination. Mr. Walsh has received many tributes from press and people but nothing has been mentioned more persistently or earnestly to his credit than the fact that in the face of evident temptation to indulge in personalities, he discussed political issues only and dealt towards his opponents as an honorable man would deal with men supposed to be equally honorable. A few of the older political persuasion may have called him spineless but it is to be expected that we will always have the paltry individual who looks upon political contests as circus performances, and tiches for the flare of the glaring torches, the contortions of the acrobats and the howling of the ballyhoo barker.

Calling of names and personal abuse should have gone with the old charter along with other discarded political methods. We are all very anxious to call attention to the beauty of residential Lowell and prosperity of industrial Lowell. Let us then be mindful of the fair name of political Lowell. One cannot throw mud and keep clean hands and if political success is to be gained by personal abuse, the triumph is not worth the price. Political success is short lived, but a fair name in the community lives longer than he who hears it. If an aspirant to office desires to occupy a position now held by an incumbent, let him tell in what he expects to improve conditions; let him confine his remarks to economy, efficiency, honesty in public trust. Let him prove to the decent voters of Lowell that he is first of all a man, and a politician as a secondary consideration. If there comes a suspicion, as there may, that any aspirant to political office is more interested in pulling down an opponent than in raising himself by fair and honorable means, the guilty individual is fully deserving of the public dislike which such a course of action always engenders in the breasts of decent men and women. Let us by all means have a clean campaign.

STILL NO CHANGE

The Mexican problem is certainly a curious one, and while no one can tell what the morrow may bring, no one would be surprised to wake up some morning and read of a declaration of war or an agreement of lasting peace. If some of our papers had their way we would have intervened long ago, but to support the probability of such intervention there is not even a positive ultimatum from President Wilson or our secretary of state. When it was stated recently that such a message had been sent there was a strong and prompt denial. Still the rumor will not die, and it has been taken for granted by a great part of the press that the president has sent word to Huerta unofficially that this country cannot countenance any settlement of the Mexican situation which does not include the elimination of the usurping dictator and his minions. Meanwhile in Mexico the cause of the constitutionalists under Carranza is growing stronger and there is every likelihood of such a revolution in the near future as ended with the foul death of Madero. While this government has taken no positive steps to sympathize with either party, the negative policy of the administration is a help to the rebels or constitutionalists, and it is probable that they have the sympathy of our people. Unless there are outrages against our own people or against foreign peoples to such a degree as to call for the protests of their respective governments, it is not likely that the present attitude of the government will change and it may be as well to let things take their course. It has been proved conclusively that while Huerta is president the affairs of Mexico will never be smoothed by an election, and the strong medicine of gun and sword may be again necessary. Success attend the more just cause.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

GOT HIS MAN
Lowell Courier-Citizen: President Wilson followed the good example of other presidents by going on home leave. He might have paired with some other Jerseyite in Washington but preferred to journey to Princeton to cast his ballot. It is activity that is marked for Fielder for governor.

VICE TALK
Boston Herald: Vice flourishes here and there. Some men and women are depraved. But must the rainy side of life be ever borne aloft? Civilization never moved so fast as today. Never has the hobgoblin of the underworld been allowed to cast its phantom shadow more unnecessarily than now.

TAMMANY NOT DEAD
Boston Post: It appears at this distance that some of the forces of good are at work in New York in making a mistake, in their post-election enthusiasm, of thinking that Tammany is killed. Even the World cartoons the "extinct" Hibernia on a globe.

But Tammany is not extinct. It will proceed today to the work of recuperation. As a business organization it never ceases its activity. It is big enough to stand four lean years, with the eternal hope of "coming back."

POOR CHAP
Hamilton (Ont.) Herald: It is said that there are only two young ladies in the world who are available as brides for the prince of Wales. And even at that the prince might find it hard to make a choice.

IN NEW BEDFORD
New Bedford Times: In arranging for pupils to build the extensive addition at the industrial school it seems to us as if the management of that institution is adopting an eminently sensible course, both for the pupils' interests and those of the taxpayers.

We know of no better way of learning how to do anything than actually doing it, under the direction of competent instructors. This is exactly what the proposed arrangement implies, and it means also a saving of a large sum of money for the city.

THE SPELLBINDER

The Citizen's Attack on Walsh

Now that election is over perhaps it is well to refer to a matter that was widely commented upon and that so-called the democrats of Lowell for Hon. David I. Walsh as nothing else could. Refer to the almost hysterical appeals of the Courier-Citizen for "anybody to beat Walsh," and its oft repeated suggestion of a republican stampede to Bird as the man most likely to defeat the democratic candidate.

Reading between the lines, it could easily be seen that the Citizen's chief objection to Walsh was based on the claim that he does not belong to what the editor in a former instance termed "the right element."

The editor's continual whine on this line so stirred up the democrats that they left sick beds to resent this insult to an able and honorable man, a man who in all the qualities essential to a chief executive, stands undeniably the peer and in the opinion of a large proportion of the people the superior of any of the other three candidates. Formerly the editor of the Courier-Citizen was a stickler for platform and principles, but in this case he was apparently willing to elect anybody, even the socialist, in order to beat Walsh. It is not necessary to go into any detailed explanation as to why Mr. Madden threw platforms to the winds in his effort to get a candidate on whom the "non-democrats" as he classed them, might unite against Walsh. His propensities in such matters are well known and his attitude in the recent campaign is thoroughly understood.

Perhaps a few quotations from this gentleman's editorials will convey a better idea than anything I can say of their tone and import. On Oct. 28 he said:

"It should be borne constantly in mind that the agreement reached to concentrate on any one of the three (Foss, Bird, Gardner)—presumably on either Gardner or Bird—Mr. Walsh might as well be beaten."

"There seems to be but one real issue from now on—and it is, in plain language, which man, Bird or Gardner, should be the one on whom the voters decide of beating Mr. Walsh should unite."

"Mr. Walsh, no matter how attractive and well meaning he may be, does not at all square with our ideals of the Massachusetts governorship. We cannot bring ourselves to see in him a fitting successor to the long list of men who have filled this exalted office. It would please us infinitely more to have some common-sense candidate, than to have Mr. Walsh win."

Note the expression, "Does not at all square with our ideals." For the week preceding election the Courier-Citizen kept up this lament over the possibility of Mr. Walsh's election, representing it as something in the nature of a "catastrophe," while at the same time advising that any one outside the "faction" supporting Walsh would be acceptable as a means of accomplishing his defeat. This was made clear in the numerous declarations, appeals for a stampede and a continuous repetition of the alleged utterly untrue statement of Mr. Walsh as a candidate.

The following is a mild sample of the stuff:

"Governor Foss is criticized by some—namely by the Boston Record, we observe—for his slogan, 'Any one to beat Walsh.' This may not be good taste in the mouth of Governor Foss, but it is every way better than the truth about this contest, for all that."

The "faction" behind Mr. Walsh must be a pretty strong one, since it polled 180,000 votes. Had Bird and Foss been out of the contest, Walsh would have beaten Gardner quite easily and he will beat him next year if that gentleman sees fit to make the fight. The Citizen's opposition swelled Walsh's vote hereabouts, while its appeal for a stampede to Bird helped to reduce Gardner's vote to the beggarly 1314 he received. It was appeals such as those made by the Citizen that helped to put the republican party out of business. The progressive has apparently come to stay. But locally the ridiculous phase of the Citizen's opposition to Walsh was the egotistical presumption with which the editor affected to sniff and fume at the status of Mr. Walsh as a candidate. From sheer narrowness he views men like Walsh through the diminishing end of the editorial telescope while applying the magnifying end to scan the candidates of all parties in opposition. It is time this thing were stopped in Massachusetts.

The County Ring Smashed
Well, well, what a jolt the county ring has received. Never in its history did it get such a wallop as in last Tuesday's election. An anti-ring candidate was elected county commissioner and another anti-ring candidate was elected district attorney. I do not believe that District Attorney Higgins had the slightest fear that he would be defeated by Mr. Corcoran, the democratic candidate. He apparently did feel some alarm lest Mr. Clark, the progressive, should be elected, after the attack made upon him by Melvin M. Johnson. Had Mr. Johnson started earlier in the campaign, Mr. Higgins' defeat would have been much more severe than it was. The chief thing that helped in his downfall here in Lowell, however, was his delay in dealing with the case of malfeasance reported to him by Mayor O'Donnell. Instead of dealing with the case directly, on the charges preferred, he apparently called in the experts of the state bureau of statistics to determine the truthfulness of the charges made, but whether he could find anything against the other aldermen. He has employed the machinery of his office for this purpose apparently and as a result delayed decisive action on the main charges upon which the people of Lowell are interested. It was a matter of interest to every citizen to know whether the provisions of the new city charter prohibiting aldermen from exceeding their appropriations, can be enforced by the courts. District Attorney Higgins has ample evidence on hand to reach a conclusion on this question; but he has not seen fit to bring the case forward within a reasonable time. Perhaps he was too busily engaged with his campaign to give the necessary time and attention to the Lowell case.

The Municipal Campaign

In the coming campaign for municipal officers there will be three classes of candidates in the field, one that will go out around the street corners to harangue the multitude about the alleged abuses in the present administration of city affairs, making personal attacks that are largely without any foundation. These men are wholly irresponsible and must be regarded as a public nuisance that should be suppressed. Most of them are perennial candidates that persist in getting their names on the ballot every year simply for the free advertising and for the opportunity it gives them to go out and abuse public officials and so far as they can, make it appear that our city government and our city affairs are rotten to the core. The sensible voters should not allow themselves to be misled in the slightest degree by these political bushwhackers, some of whom are said to be paid for slinging mud at public officials. They assail as grafters and crooks men the latches of whose shoes they are unworthy to loose.

There is another class of candidates who in order to reach the voters speak on the street corners and from the city hall steps, but they preserve their dignity and discuss the official record of public men in a legitimate way. Inasmuch as outdoor speaking has become a common among candidates, these men feel that in justice to themselves they should avail of it in order to correct the false statements by some of the others.

The third class is made up of the candidates who declare their candidacy and appeal to the voters through the press. Many of these are the ablest and most desirable men; they are men of experience in business who consider it beneath their dignity to get into a contest with the man who is most adept at using big game with the accuracy of the most elegant of the public office. I would ask when or why public brawling, vituperation and sensationalism became the qualifications for candidates for public office. It would be well for the city if our campaigns were conducted so as to secure the best men without any of the spectacular, abusive and turbulent methods introduced recently and now becoming so ridiculously common.

Alderman Brown a Candidate

Alderman George H. Brown has declared himself as a candidate for mayor. If by any possibility he should be elected, there would be a vacancy for alderman, which would require the holding of a special election at very considerable expense to the city. This should not be allowed and the municipal council should pass an ordinance making it illegal in the future. If this action will not suffice then the charter should be so amended as to provide that an elected city official should be compelled to resign before he can become a candidate for a different elective municipal office. In the present case, of course, nobody expects that there is any chance of Mr. Brown's election, but that is not the question. The fact of his running for mayor establishes a precedent that should not be tolerated.

A special election would cost about $10,000 and this would be too much to throw away merely to gratify the ambition of an official either to secure a different office or to get his name on the ballot mainly for the purpose of giving him a better opportunity of abusing other candidates.

Section 63 of the city charter says: "No person who resigns from an elective office whether recall proceedings are pending against him or not, shall be appointed to any elective office within one year after such resignation. There seems to be an ambiguity in this section as the elective office in the second case probably refers to an office to be filled by the municipal council. As the charter is not clear on the question it may be necessary to have it made so by a legislative amendment."

VINCENT ASTOR TO WED

REPORT THAT HIS ENGAGEMENT TO MISS HUNTINGTON WILL BE ANNOUNCED SOON

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Announcement of the engagement of Vincent Astor to Miss Helen Dismore Huntington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington of Hopland house, Straitsburg, New York, is expected to be made soon, according to a report published here this morning. The report quotes Mr. Astor as confirming the fact of the engagement and stating that the Mrs. Huntington would announce the engagement some time today.

Ernestine, Mr. Astor's country estate at Rhinebeck and the Huntington estate, are adjoining properties.

ASTOR CONFIRMS REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Vincent Astor confirmed through his secretary today the announcement that he was engaged to marry Miss Helen Dismore Huntington, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington of Staatsburg, N. Y. The wedding, it is understood, will take place next spring.

Young Astor inherited about $25,000,000 from the estate of his father, the late Col. John Jacob Astor, who perished on the Titanic. He will be 22 years old this month. The bride-to-be is 20. The Astor country place adjoining that of the Huntingtons at Staatsburg, which is a few miles north of Pough-

YACHT BUILT FOR TROPICS

Freeman B. Shedd's Amber Jack Will be Taken to Labrador by Doctor Grenfell

The late Freeman B. Shedd of this city built the auxiliary ketch, Amber Jack, for use in the Bahamas, where he made his winter home. The Shedd estate, it was announced yesterday, has presented the yacht to Dr. Grenfell of Boston, who will use her in connection with the hospitals scattered along Labrador's bleak coast. The Amber Jack is a distinct addition to the Grenfell fleet and its purpose for which the missionary surgeon has long felt need.

Mr. Shedd, whose death occurred last March, was a prominent member of the Eastern, Boston and other yacht clubs. He owned the schooner Brenda, the sloop Recreation and other notable yachts with home port at Marblehead. In these vessels he made extended cruises and annually visited most of the ports along the coast of Maine.

When Mr. Shedd's health became impaired he sought the Bahamas, and the Amber Jack was designed for him by Arthur Blinn as a seaworthy craft for those offshore troubles waters. A hobby with Mr. Shedd was fishing and, in the vicinity of Nassau, that sport was at its best. Contract for building the yacht was awarded to D. Crosby of Oosterville and she was put in commission in 1905. The long passage to Nassau was undertaken by a Cape Cod skipper and helper, and the

GOV. RALSTON OF INDIANA SETTLES INDIANAPOLIS STRIKE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—The strike of the employees of the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company was settled late yesterday through the efforts of Governor Samuel D. Ralston. The employees won their demand for arbitration, but nothing is said about recognition of the union in the terms of settlement.

Street car service is to be resumed within 12 hours, according to the terms of the settlement of the strike, which also provides against any further interference with the operation of cars.

All the men who were in the employ of the company Friday night, Oct. 31, when the strike was called, and all employees who had been discharged on account of joining the union are to be reinstated by the company with full seniority rights and without prejudice. The company, however, is not compelled to reinstate men who engaged in violence during the strike, but the refused men may appeal to the Public Utilities commission of Indiana for a hearing.

Disputes and grievances as to wages, hours, conditions and service will be referred to the utilities commission for arbitration if the employees and company fail to reach a mutual agreement within ten days. The company must take up these grievances with its employees within five days after the resumption of service.

The utilities commission, by the terms of settlement, must render a decision, which shall be binding on all parties interested for three years, and shall relate back to the resumption of work within 30 days from the date of the first hearing.

CAR SERVICE RESUMED

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—For the first time in seven days the people of Indianapolis heard the hum of motors and clang of the bells of street cars, this morning as the service interrupted by the strike of the employees of the Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. was resumed.

LOWELL YOUNG MAN IN CHINA SPANKING WIFE

Reginald Smith is Deputy Consul and Marshal in Chefoo

Was Formerly Connected With Internal Revenue Dept. in Manila

He Says Chefoo is a Beautiful Place and He is Quite Contented

The many friends of Reginald F. Smith of this city will be pleased to learn that he is happy and prosperous in the flowery kingdom. Reginald was home about two years or so ago from the Philippines and spent several weeks here. He is the son of the late Dr. Herman J. Smith and brother of Dr. Forster H. Smith and Carroll Smith. The latter arrived in Lowell a few weeks ago from California, having made the trip by automobile.

Reginald Smith was connected with the bureau of internal revenue at Manila, P. I., and had been there several years. He resigned that position some time ago to accept the position of deputy consul and marshal in Chefoo, China. This position will put him in line for a transfer to some other post as full consul, and Reginald is not in the habit of allowing grass to grow under his feet when he can see better things ahead.

He has a good knowledge of Spanish, speaks it fluently, and he ought to find a good chance to do a consular job in a Spanish speaking country.

REGINALD F. SMITH
Deputy U. S. Consul

After he has passed the necessary examinations. This might mean his transfer to South America which will become very important soon owing to the opening of the canal.

In a letter to his mother, dated September 12th, Reginald tells of his arrival at Chefoo and says it is a most delightful spot. He says that all of the men and women in Chefoo go in for sports of every description. Tennis, swimming, horseback riding and yacht racing, he says, seem to be the most popular.

"They say it gets awfully cold here in winter," Reginald says in his letter to his mother, "but the spring and summer should certainly pay up for it. Just now we are getting fine Bartlett pears, apples, peaches and grapes. They seem awfully good to me because we never had them in the Philippines. There is a fine bathing beach here and plenty of good fishing."

O.K. in Brooklyn When the Mother Interferes With Punishment

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—If a father has a right to spank a child (it being his child) he also has a right to spank that child's mother (she being his wife), provided that Spank No. 2 tries to interfere with him in spanking No. 1.

That is, he seems to have the right, in Brooklyn. At least, one spanker got away with it over there yesterday.

Luther Sisson, who's an Italian and lives at No. 224 Fulton street, had occasion on Friday to turn one of his youngsters over his knee for a little parental admonition delivered with the same hand that wields the tongs and bangs the crystal blocks upon the dumbwaiter.

Mrs. Sisson remonstrated, whereupon the purveyor of the Kenebunk (the last syllable's right anyhow) stuff, took his spouse, turned her over his knee and administered to her the same treatment that he had delivered to their son.

Yesterday morning she had him arrested and taken before Magistrate McGuire in the New Jersey avenue court. She testified that it wasn't so much the physical pain of the spanking as the objection to it as it was the humiliation of being held while said Arctic spanking was being delivered in an undignified position.

Sisson, upon being asked to explain, said that he felt he had a right to administer the good old-fashioned corrective measures to any member of his family.

Honer, Magistrate McGuire, didn't exactly disagree. First, he told Mrs. Sisson she mustn't interfere with her husband. Then he told Sisson that he mustn't do it again. Finally he suspended sentence. The Sissons left court together.

DEATHS

CLEVELAND—Miss Hattie L. Cleveland, aged 85 years, died at her home in Dracut, aged 85 years.

FUNERALS

CORNELLIER—The funeral of Narcisse Cornellier took place this morning from his home, 114 Ford street and was largely attended. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. August Graton, O. M. I., officiating, assisted by Rev. Joseph Capul, O. M. I., and Rev. Joseph Denis, O. M. I., as deacon and sub-deacon. The bearers were five sons of deceased, Joseph, Arthur, Eusebe, Thomas, and Max. The funeral was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. E. J. A. Chaput, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Amedee Archambault.

BURNS—The funeral of the late James F. Burns took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from his home, 293 Westford street and was largely attended. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church, including a number from out of town, among the latter were Dr. Frank Murray of Everett, Mrs. Frank McCarthy of Chelsea, as deacon and sub-deacon, and Mr. Joseph McCarthy of Chelsea, as deacon and sub-deacon. The bearers were five sons of deceased, Joseph, Arthur, Eusebe, Thomas, and Max. The funeral was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. E. J. A. Chaput, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Amedee Archambault.

FUNERAL NOTICES

CLEVELAND—Died, in Dracut, Mass., Nov. 7, Miss Hattie L. Cleveland, aged 85 years. Funeral services will be held at the home of the deceased, 114 Ford street, on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Friends are invited without further notice to attend. Burial place at Potomac, N. Y. Monday.

TWO ALARM FIRE

At Everett—Patrolman Hit by the Fire Department Auto

EVERETT, Nov. 8.—Patrolman John Loneragan was struck by the automobile of Chief Joseph T. Swan while it was on its way to a two-alarm fire in South Everett at 6 o'clock. He was thrown several feet, knocked unconscious and received a severe wound in his head, minor bruises and possibly internal injuries.

The fire destroyed an old barn on Bow street, near the corner of Thornside street, with a loss of about $1500, and menaced several houses.

When hit by the Auto Patrolman Loneragan was signaling to several autos approaching the intersection of the River Beach boulevard and Main street as the chief's auto was speeding down the latter street. As the machine, which was driven by Chief Swan personally, neared Loneragan he suddenly took several steps backward, too late for the chief to turn out, and he was struck by the wind shield. The force of the blow shattered the glass and bent the brass rods.

THE LOWELL ART CLUB

WILL PROVIDE AN EXHIBITION OF ART WORK FROM A BOSTON ARTIST

A meeting of the directors of the Lowell Art association was held at the Whistler house yesterday afternoon and the former officers, President Joseph A. Nesmith and vice president Rev. Charles T. Billings were re-elected for another term. Treasurer Chase was also re-elected and he acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Wood.

President Nesmith reported that he had interviewed Scars Gallagher of Boston, a noted painter for an exhibition of his etchings probably early in December. This may be the opening attraction and it is planned to hold a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher.

It was voted to follow the usual custom of holding a sale of Lowell made goods in the Whistler house on December 5. A desire has, it seems been expressed for another exhibition of Whistler etchings and of the etchings of other well known painters during this coming season and arrangements will be started with a view to bringing this about.

The treasurer submitted an interesting financial report which showed a good condition of the finance department of the association.

Rev. Mr. Billings was empowered to provide a number of lectures, illustrated and otherwise, during the winter.

THE JOHN ELLIS CASE

PERJURY CHARGE DOES NOT HOLD IN JAPAN—EXTRADITION REFUSED

TOKIO, Japan, Nov. 8.—The Japanese government holds that the case against John Ellis, business manager of the Japan Advertiser, whose extradition to the United States has been refused, was not one of perjury according to the Japanese law, which requires false testimony during an examination in judicial procedure to be proved.

Ellis, it is said, made an alleged perjurious affidavit in regard to his wife's insanity before an extra judicial attorney.

The demand for the extradition of Ellis was made by the American ambassador, the charge being perjury, as abduction, for which Ellis is said to be wanted in Boston, is not an extraditable offense.

A detective from Massachusetts arrived here yesterday in connection with the case.

VERDICT IN KIEV TRIAL

EXPECTED THAT JURY WILL GIVE FINDING IN TRIAL OF MENDEL BEISSER TOMORROW

KIEV, Russia, Nov. 8.—There is every possibility of the jury giving its verdict tomorrow in the trial of Mendel Beisser for the alleged murder of Yushinsky in March, 1911.

Speeches of the counsel are to conclude today. M. Gruenberg, another attorney for the defense, opened the day's proceedings by arguing that Beisser was being made a scapegoat for the mistakes of the officials who conducted the preliminary investigation. Counsel did not make words in referring to the Vera Teberlak band of criminals. He said he was convinced of their guilt, for "all kinds of evidence led to Vera Teberlak and not to the black works where Beisser had been employed."

The activities of the anti-semitic Black hundred continued without cessation. Thirt society, the Two Hundred, issued today an accusation that the Jews had spent $3,500,000 during the trial, the recipients of the money including counsel, the press, the police and witnesses.

TO SEND LOBSTERS WEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—In a few days a refrigerated tank car will start west carrying 3500 lobsters. They are being sent by the United States fish commission as a gift to the Pacific coast to try to stock the Pacific waters, now lacking in this variety of seafood with fine Maine lobsters. The lobsters will be placed around the San Juan Islands in Puget sound, where the fish experts believe they will thrive.

BAY STATE WINS

M. A. C. Certified Milk Best in Country—To Get Gold Medal

AMHERST, Nov. 8.—Prof. J. A. Foord announced yesterday that he has received word that the Massachusetts Agricultural college has been awarded the gold medal at the National Dairy show, held in Chicago, for the best certified milk, in competition with the whole United States.

The first report was that the Massachusetts college was tied with Washington State college, but a careful investigation showed that the Massachusetts milk had 100 less bacteria a cubic centimeter than that of Washington.

BOLD ROBBERY

house by means of the cellar door. The door was battered in with an axe and strange to say the noise seemed to attract no one in the vicinity. This method of gaining an entrance into the kitchen from the cellar was the same as a small hole was cut in the door so that he could reach through and unfasten the bolt which held it.

Mr. Valliant and his wife left home shortly after 1 o'clock in their auto and did not return until after three o'clock. The thief was probably in the vicinity of the house when the machine left the garage and, deciding that the house was empty, he broke in his way in. The axe with which he forced his entrance, was later found upon the floor of one of the bedrooms.

Mrs. Potter stated last night that she saw a man enter the Valliant cellar by way of the bulkhead early yesterday afternoon. She did not say any particular attention to him, thinking that he was doubtless a man in the employ of Mr. Valliant and engaged in cleaning up the cellar. She described him as a young man of medium height and neat appearance. He was dressed in dark clothes and light shoes and carried a small leather bag.

Mr. Valliant gave over a list of the articles missing from his house to the police last night. Besides $5 in currency two gold watches, several silver pins, earrings, cuff links and other minor articles of jewelry were taken by the thief.

Although the fact remains that the thief carried a bag he could not have been possessed of a burglar's outfit or he would never have taken the risk he incurred by using an axe to batter in the door. Circumstances point toward the amateur instead of the professional for in all of the three breaks there appear the same rough symptoms that an expert never leaves behind him.

POLICE COURT CASES

LARCENY AND OTHER CASES HEARD BY JUDGE ENRIGHT TODAY

A trio of foreigners went up to Max Weiss's place of business on Middlesex street the other day to ask Max to referee an English speaking contest between the three. Each contended that he could speak the best English and it was decided to allow Max to decide the winner.

Liquid refreshments played their little part in the affair, although none of them was drunk. In the mix-up one of the contestants, Anthony Macolylch, lost a $2 bill and Weiss pleaded not guilty this morning to the larceny of the same.

The complainant claimed that he tried to buy a pair of shoes for $1.50 and that he gave Weiss a $2 bill for the shoes. After the shoes were wrapped up the defendant, he said, would give him back no change. He left the shoes, forthwith, and went in search of Officer Sheridan.

The officer simply knew what had been told him by the two parties. There were several witnesses on each side of the case and they were examined at length by Daniel J. Donahue, Esq. Mr. Donahue made several very salty sallies at the expense of the defendant and his witnesses.

After the evidence had all been put in Judge Enright said that he was not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant had taken the money. Weiss was ordered to be discharged.

Larceny of $5

Alcide Provencier changed his plea of guilty this morning. He was charged with the larceny of $5 from Marie Yezia and was thankful of an opportunity to settle the case civilly. He was found guilty and ordered to pay the costs of his trial as well as make good for the $5 which he took from the complainant.

Walter D. Hayden was arrested for drunkenness but the fact that he possessed a valuable watch when arrested made Supt. Welch ask for a continuance in the case until next Monday. The delay is for the purpose of finding out whether or not the defendant is the owner of the timepiece.

Sent to Reformatory

Arthur Reno was sent to the Massachusetts reformatory. He was arrested for larceny and also for living with a young girl. The charge of larceny was placed on file and he was sentenced on the other complaint. He has quite a record and is only a young man. The girl was released by Judge Enright as he thought that she was more sinned against than sinning.

Charles McDermott was fined $5 for drunkenness. McDermott promised faithfully to stop drinking and was given an opportunity to pay his fine. Samuel Harrison was given straight probation for the same offence.

marked that there wouldn't be street corners enough in Lowell to accommodate such a plethora of candidates and she allowed that some of them would have to take to the house tops.

"There are street corners enough, but there is great danger that the supply of soap boxes will run short," said a policeman, standing at her side.

"Well, I'll wager," said the spirited little woman, "that the fellow speaking from the soap box will get more votes than the fellow who speaks from the automobile," and the bluecoat answered never a word.

John B. Clancy on Deck

John B. Clancy, one of Lowell's perennial candidates, was on deck bright and early and John B's papers were loaded with signatures.

Mr. Clancy left Assistant City Clerk McCarthy in a few "minutes," John said that he had erected a platform at his barn in Floyd street for the accommodation of himself and other candidates. "I will hold open house Wednesday afternoon," said John, "and everybody's welcome. I will invite all of the candidates and any of my neighbors who are not candidates but who feel like making a little speech will be welcome. The candidates should come out and declare themselves. The voter is entitled to an opportunity to size up the man who seeks his vote. I am ready to discuss any and all issues. I have had experience in about all of the departments connected with the municipal government and feel as if I could serve my city faithfully and well."

"You never had any experience in the finance department, did you?" ventured Mr. McCarthy, and John B. replied: "Well once upon a time I belonged to an association and we called ourselves the guards. The fundamental principle of that association was that no lazy or extravagant man could be a guard. So you see what I mean by that."

Mr. McCarthy accepted the apology and the incident was closed. Mr. Clancy is a candidate for alderman.

Lowell's Total Vote

Lowell's total vote was under discussion at city hall this forenoon and it was stated that while the voting strength of the city is over 15,000 the vote rarely goes above 12,000 or thereabout. There are about 1800 French-American voters in the city.

Evening School Attendance

It was stated at the office of the school superintendent this forenoon that there are 85 teachers, including interpreters, in the elementary evening schools and the average attendance, according to weekly reports, is 1353. There are 31 teachers at the evening high school and the average attendance there is 715.

The John J. Green Case

The case of John J. Green vs. the City of Lowell came up for hearing before Justice Sheldon in the equity session of the superior court, Pemberton square, Boston, yesterday. Jackson Palmer for the plaintiff and City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy for the city. The Green case, so called, has been hanging fire for years and some time ago James J. Kerwin was appointed auditor. His mission was to hear the evidence and report to the court. The auditor has made his report and the case was opened yesterday on the grounds of newly discovered evidence. The new evidence being evidence to be presented by George H. Brown, who was mayor at the time that Mr. Green was removed from the fire department. Mr. Green seeks reinstatement as a fireman and the city contends that he never held that position.

Mr. Green asked to have the case recommitted to the auditor because of the discovery of new evidence but the court ruled that the case should not be recommitted. The court said that if new evidence had been discovered since the case was made there would be ample time to introduce it when the case is being heard on its merits.

Lumber For School Houses

Bids on a lot of lumber for school house improvements were opened by Purchasing Agent Pope this forenoon and the contract was awarded the A. Pratt Co. The bids were as follows: Burkhart & Davis, $205.87; Pratt & Forrester, $122.48; A. Pratt Co., $122.00.

Contagious Diseases Reported

The following contagious diseases were reported at the office of the board of health during the week. Diphtheria,

7 cases; scarlet fever, 1 case; typhoid fever, 3; measles, 3; membranous croup.

City of Des Moines

The city of Des Moines, Iowa, is discussing the advisability of purchasing the water plant which is now owned privately and the authorities there have addressed a communication to Supt. Thomas of the Lowell water department asking him for suggestions. The letter says Mr. Thomas a very flattering compliment inasmuch as it states that he is considered one of the best authorities in the country. Mr. Thomas received considerable literature with the letter in order that he might read up a bit on Des Moines and he is very much interested in the literature. It is very evident, he said, that they don't do things by halves in Des Moines. The city has a population of about 100,000. The appropriation for schools last year was $60,000 and this year $1,000,000.

Out for Free Discussion

Alderman Barrett has engaged the basement of the Lynn street school for next Thursday evening and order tickets for office are invited to attend the big rally. Mr. Barrett says he is out for a full and free discussion of all issues.

Water Department Work

Alderman Barrett stated today that all water department work mapped out for the present year was completed before the snow flies unless Jack Frost should put in an appearance unexpectedly. The department will move into Westford street where a 16-in. main will be laid from Westford and Pine streets. It houses the line of improvement near new services they will be put in and all flush hydrants will be changed to post hydrants. The pipe to be laid in Appleton street will be a continuation of the Appleton street main connecting with the Church street main laid last year.

All streets in Little Canada have been connected with the big 24-inch main that was stretched across the Merrimack river a short time ago and on the continuation of that line in Adams street will be finished in a little while. It was stated today that the department would get through with the Gorham street job next week. The Gorham street job consisted of taking out a six-inch pipe and putting a 12-inch pipe in its stead. The water department is also laying a 12-inch pipe in Plain street.

Recount Monday Morning

The recount petitioned for by Rep. Williams of Billerica will be begun at city hall, Monday morning.

R.A. MEN AT SPRINGFIELD

MESSRS. JOHN J. HOGAN AND FRED E. JONES OF THIS CITY ATTEND RECEPTION

Hon. John J. Hogan, supreme trustee of the Royal Arcanum and Mr. Fred E. Jones, grand warden, have returned from a visit to Springfield, the occasion being a reception to Supreme Regent Frank B. Wickersham, of Harrisburg, Pa., by the councils of Springfield and vicinity. The affair was held under the auspices of Equity Council. Four hundred members, including many supreme officers and grand officers from the jurisdictions of Massachusetts and Connecticut were present and witnessed the conferring of the degree on thirty-four candidates.

BIG WIRELESS STATION

Newcastle, N.B., Will Have Biggest Station in World—Plant Visited by Representative of The Sun

The largest and most powerful wireless station in the world is being erected in Newcastle, N. B., a picturesque city, overlooking the Miramichi river at a point near where the south-west and north-west branches of that beautiful river join forces on their way to the sea. Newcastle is in the heart of the big game country and various industries have been cropping up there of late. The coming of the big wireless station, however, is the most interesting of all the new things that have been built for the Universal Radio syndicate and when completed will have direct communication with a corresponding station on the west coast of Ireland.

The writer was in Newcastle about three weeks ago and was very much interested in the new station which is now well under way. The wireless plant occupies a position near the railroad station and on an elevation of 50 feet or more. The people in Newcastle are very much alive to the possibilities of the new station and the writer was told that the government has an arrangement with the Radio syndicate whereby the government, at the end of five years, will have the power to take the whole service from the syndicate and operate it as a government work.

The station comprises an immense steel tower and six auxiliary towers. At the foot of the steel tower, foundations are being prepared for the administration building which will be a building with a concrete basement and upper structure of concrete blocks 100 feet long by 35 feet wide. This will provide accommodation for the general offices, two operating rooms, one for sending and the other for receiving messages, and offices for other purposes. Between the central tower and the Intercolonial railroad, which is close by, the power house is being built. This is a building also of concrete base and concrete upper structure, 55 feet by 15, and 20 feet from the ground floor to the eaves. The power house will be equipped with powerful oil engines.

Between the central steel tower, 550 feet high, and the six auxiliary towers, 200 feet high, will be stretched a network of copper wire. From 120,000 to 150,000 feet will be used, the whole forming when completed a mammoth skeleton umbrella. Another 100,000 feet of wire is laid in trenches around the towers to furnish proper "grounding." The steel tower was built in England and was shipped in sections to Newcastle.

This station, The Sun man was informed, will be the most powerful wireless station in the world, though at present the station at San Francisco which communicates with Honolulu, 2350 miles away, enjoys that distinction. The San Francisco station is rated as a 30 kilowatt station with a voltage of 550 and covers 25 acres, while the station at Newcastle will be a 40-kilowatt station with a voltage of 1000, covering 54 acres. The distance across the Atlantic to the corresponding station now in course of construction at Ballyhannon on the southwest coast of Ireland, will be about 2700 miles, so if the smaller station at San Francisco is able to operate satisfactorily over 2350 miles, the more powerful one at Newcastle should have no difficulty in covering 2700 miles over the Atlantic.

The resident engineer, Mr. E. W. Sawyer, talked very interestingly of the new stations and the wireless service in general. All wireless telegraphy is founded on the discovery made many years ago by a German scientist named Hertz, that electric magnetic impulses could be made to travel great distances through the air, and these impulses were called after their discoverer, "Hertzian waves." For many years Marconi and other scientists have been experimenting with these waves with the idea of perfecting a system that would turn them to practical use and the world knows how well they have succeeded.

The system, however, which will be used at the Newcastle station was invented by Dr. Valdemar Poulsen, a distinguished Danish scientist, and distinguishes itself from the others, differs very materially from them in many essential features. Briefly the difference is this: The Marconi system makes signals by closing and breaking an electric circuit. Every dot and dash signal represents an independent electric current impulse transmitted through the air, while the Poulsen system makes signals by varying at the will of the sending operator the elec-

PRAISE DISTRICT ATTORNEY

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The Middlesex grand jury highly complimented District Attorney John J. Higgins at the close of their November session before Judge Keating at East Cambridge yesterday.

After the last prisoner had pleaded to his indictment, Foreman George A. Wilder announced that the grand jury had on a recent day which they wished to submit to the court and have spread upon the records. It was a letter thanking the district attorney for his treatment of the juryman.

HENS ON STRIKE

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Hens are on a strike. They won't be taken, forced or coaxed to meet the demand with the supply. They simply have not the disposition and will not respond to the anticipation and need of the coop owner.

Five cents apiece was the price at which the eggs were sold yesterday for the best and latest laid eggs. The retail price, however, is not so high. The price will not be as the supply, though, though, now seems certain to become less.

DENOUNCED TAFT

Labor Man Condemns His Vote of Immigration Bill Last Year

SIDATLE, Wash., Nov. 8.—Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, addressing the Western Labor Immigration congress, yesterday denounced ex-President Taft for vetoing the immigration bill passed a year ago, and declared that employers who opposed this bill were bent on "tearing down the civilization of the country to fatten their own purses."

Mr. Morrison predicted an enormous flow of European immigrants to the Pacific coast through the Panama canal.

"When these strangers come—550,000 to 600,000 of them the first year," he said, "they will have to find work. If they can't get $3.00 a day they will take less, possibly 50 cents, or just enough to buy bread and avoid starvation. By admitting these people you are not only hurting yourself but the nations from which they come. If conditions are bad there, the only way they will ever be bettered will be by forcing the dissatisfied workers to revolt and fight their own way to victory."

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, in urging that the trades union exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition be a good one, said it had virtually been agreed that there would be no convention of the federation next year and that the 1915 convention should be held in San Francisco early in the year.

MAN TOUCHED FOR $325

BOSTON WAITER PLACED TRUST IN PAIR OF STRANGERS WHO SKIPPED WITH HIS ROLL

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—George Korkas, a Greek waiter who has in the past three years worked in many Boston hotels, yesterday reported to the police that he had been flim-flammed by two men, who worked the old handkerchief confidence game on him.

The men got $325, which Korkas drew from the Wilsey Savings bank in order that he could go with them to Mexico, where there was all kinds of money, according to the men.

Korkas says he met one of the strangers in Washington street, near Knollend, where he confided in the man, telling him of the amount of money he possessed. Another man was introduced to him after he drew the money from the bank Korkas put it in a handkerchief.

In the handkerchief, one of the strangers placed $6000—theoretically—and Korkas was made treasurer. He was given the package of money and they started for Mexico. When the trio came to a building where there were two entrances, one of the men went inside. A short time later the other went to look for him.

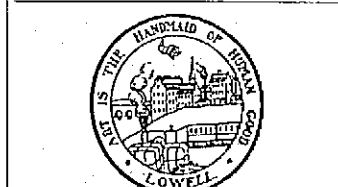

Korkas waited, but when they did not return he went to look for them. When they could be found he went to Station 4 and opened his bundle, which he found contained waste paper.

BULL MOOSE DOOMED

ROOSEVELT NO LONGER A POLITICAL FACTOR, SAYS SEN. LA FOLLETTE OF WISCONSIN

Theodore Roosevelt has passed as a political factor, according to a statement made by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin at Atlanta, Ga.

Asked as to the future of the progressive party, Senator La Follette said:

"What do you mean, progressive party? Do you mean the future of a great progressive party that is going to be brought forth for the next campaign or do you mean that offshoot from the republican party that had Roosevelt for its candidate last year?"

Points to Results in Jersey

Assured that the Roosevelt organization was meant, La Follette said:

"The result in New Jersey just about answers your question. The progressive vote in the national election was about 140,000 as I remember it. The progressive vote in this election was only 10,000.

"There you have it. It is the same all over the country. I imagine. The progressive vote in the national election was said to be a 'Roosevelt vote,' but to my mind it was not a Roosevelt vote at all. It was simply a vote of protest against the conditions in the two big parties.

"The republican party will be reorganized on progressive lines and the so-called Roosevelt vote will return. The reorganized republican party will have the progressive plank which practically every student of political science agrees should be there."

Referring to the New York city election

La Follette said:

"I don't believe Tammany can come back. The people are done with bosses of the Quay, Platt and Murphy type."

"Tammany can only come back as a clean organization."

Gov. Johnson Talks

Gov. Hiram W. Johnson of California, who was Colonel Roosevelt's running mate in the progressive party race last year, went to Chicago from his campaign efforts in Massachusetts and New Jersey. He said:

"The theatre of action from the national standpoint was Massachusetts."

TO CLEAN, OR NOT TO CLEAN

That is the question. Whether it is better to use antiquated ideas or modern cleaning machinery, has been tested fully in this establishment. We do not infer that we, of late years, have employed stale methods. We haven't; but being the oldest established cleaning and dyeing house here, naturally there was a time when we had to use the "ancients."

How have we changed? A modernized plant, equal to any emergency. Such is progress.

THE NATIONAL GRANGE MEETING TO BE HELD AT MANCHESTER, N. H., NEXT TUESDAY. LOWELL PEOPLE TO ATTEND

The annual convention of the National grange will be opened in Manchester, N. H., next Tuesday and will last two weeks. The grangers of Manchester and the towns in that vicinity are making great preparations for the event, which will probably be the greatest of its kind ever held in this part of the country.

Last night Oliver Wilson of Peoria, Ill., national master of the Patrons of Husbandry, who is to preside at the convention, passed through this city en route to Manchester. On his arrival at the latter city he was welcomed by a number of grangers and others interested in the work.

The main streets of the beautiful city are being decorated for the occasion and Manchester will be a mass of bunting by the first of the week. A large sign, 50x20 feet, has been placed opposite the Union station and it will bear the following inscription: "Welcome, Grangers, to Manchester, the Home of Big Industries." The names of several well known Manchester firms will also be displayed.

Thursday will be "Lowell Day" at the convention and it is expected that a number of grangers from this city and the suburban towns will be present. The seventh degree will be conferred on that day and it is expected that thousands of visitors will attend the sessions. There will be but two public sessions in connection with the grange convention. These will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

NEWS OF ST. MARGARET'S PARISH The members of the choir of St. Margaret's church held a meeting last evening and completed arrangements for the very party and dance which is to be held under their auspices in Highland club hall on Nov. 19. The officers elected to take charge were: General manager, Cornelius C. Calnan; assistant, Frank McCarthy; floor director, James Knowles.

There will be a business meeting of the members of the Holy Name society in the church on next Tuesday evening, according to an announcement made by Rev. Fr. Galligan today. Important matters will come up for discussion and action.

COTTON REPORT DEBATING CLUB

8,835,912 Bales of the Growth of 1912 Ginned Prior to November 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The fourth cotton ginning report of the season, compiled from reports of census bureau correspondents and agents throughout the cotton belt and issued at 10 a. m. today, announced that 8,835,912 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, of the growth of 1912 had been ginned prior to November 1. To that date last year 8,569,222 bales, or 68.8 per cent of the entire crop, had been ginned; in 1911 to that date 9,970,305 or 61.1 per cent of the crop had been ginned; in 1908 to that date 8,191,537 bales, or 62.6 per cent of the crop had been ginned, and in 1906 to that date 6,506,355 bales, or 53.2 per cent of the crop had been ginned.

Included in the total ginnings were 61,820 round bales, compared with 54,539 bales last year, 58,313 bales in 1911, 81,153 bales in 1910 and 109,621 bales in 1909.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—The Yale-Princeton football game will be played here Saturday, Nov. 15, and a record breaking attendance is assured.

Princeton is the favorite owing to the somewhat disorganized shape of the Eli eleven. Captain Hobey Baker of Princeton and Captain Ketcham of Yale have each been putting their men through secret practice. Streitt's line plunging, Baker's running back and the fierce tackling of Ballin and Phillips are expected to be the chief points of strength of the Princeton eleven. Yale's line has been strengthened by shifting several men.

And Captain Ketcham, best known as a center man, will play at end. The members of the Yale team in the accompanying photo according to number are as follows: 1, Carter; 2, Warren; 3, Conney; 4, Knowles; 5, Wilson; 6, Captain Ketcham; 7, Pumphrey; 8, Robinson; 9, Ainsworth; 10, Talbot; 11, Avery.

BOLD ROBBERY IN THE HIGHLANDS

Superintendent Welch was notified last night about six o'clock that another daylight robbery had been committed in this city, this time the victim being M. E. Vaillant, of 116 Princeton street. The robbery was executed, it is thought, by the same party who entered the houses of J. J. Shepard and N. W. Norcross recently. The police have nothing on which to base a clue except the story given them by Mrs. C. A. Potter, of 122 Princeton street, who saw the thief plainly as he entered the premises of Mr. Vaillant. This is the first real clue that they have been able to obtain since the first of this series of breaks was reported. Yesterday afternoon between the hours of 1.15 and 2.15 the home of Mr. Vaillant was broken into by the mysterious thief. Every article of any intrinsic value was taken and the house ransacked from top to bottom in an effort to find everything of value on the premises. There was a small amount of money in the house and this was taken. The thief, as in the case of the Shepard break, gained entrance into the

SEEN IN CENTRALVILLE BUT HE ESCAPED THE POLICE INSPECTORS

The residents of Centralville heights were somewhat alarmed this afternoon, when a suspicious character was seen around Mr. Fred N. Wier's residence in Eleventh street. The police were notified and Sergt. Pettie and Inspector Walsh were detailed to the scene, but they found nobody to arrest.

Shortly after dinner Mrs. Wier noticed a man acting rather strangely about her place. He walked up and down Eleventh street as far as Methuen street, and seemed to be closely watching the Wier residence as well as that of S. R. Jackson at the corner of Eleventh and Methuen streets. Mrs. Wier telephoned Mr. Jackson across the street, and told him of the strange actions of the individual who had been in the district for some time. He in turn called up the police station inasmuch as it was feared the strange man might prove to be the same who has been committing larceny in the Highlands.

The two police officers hurried to Eleventh street, but when they arrived there they found the man had disappeared. The man was neatly dressed and is of middle age. His hair is of iron gray and he weighs about 150 pounds.

CRIMSON WON GREAT GAME

UNIVERSITY FIELD, PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—Under weather conditions that were not the best Harvard and Princeton met this afternoon in their annual football battle. Rain fell quite heavily several times during the forenoon and at 1 p. m. when the groundkeepers finished removing the straw from the gridiron there was another heavy shower. The few spectators on the field at the time huddled under their umbrellas. The downpour was soon over and things brightened up. Then the crowd came in steady and poured into the big enclosure from the four corners of the field. Harvard was the favorite as the teams lined up for the fray.

The team had done well so far this season and the Princeton squad realized it would have to play a sterling game to win. Princeton coaches, however, expected to spring a surprise on the football sharps. It was expected that Princeton would resort to much open field play to gain ground against Harvard's superior line work.

Harvard Squad Arrives
The Harvard squad, forty men, came on the field at 1.15 o'clock for a little practice to test out the field. All the men who may be called upon to do the punting and drop kicking practiced their specialties. The center rushes tested themselves snapping the wet ball back to the quarterbacks.

After gambling on the field for 15 minutes the Harvard players retired to their quarters. In the meantime the arriving spectators were entertained by a brass band stationed in the Harvard stand on the west side of the field. The lineup:

PRINCETON
Hammond, 1 c
Phillips, 1 t
Semmons, 1 g
B. Trankman, c
W. Swart, r g
Ballin, r t
Shea, r e
Glyck, q
Law, 1 h
J. Baker, r h
B. Brickley, f
Officials—W. S. Langford, Trinity; umpire, Nell Snow, Michigan; linesman, D. L. Fultz, Brown.

The first real cheer of the afternoon was brought forth when the Princeton team ran on the field from the southeast entrance of the grounds. Two minutes later the big Harvard squad came through the same entrance and were vociferously greeted.

Princeton Won Toss
Princeton won the toss and elected to defend the north goal. Harvard took the kickoff.

Harvard kicked off over the goal line and Princeton ran the ball back 33 yards, Glyck carrying the ball. Law immediately punted to Harvard's 30 yard line. Harvard ran it back eight yards before the Crimson runner was downed. Harvard immediately returned the punt, Captain Baker making a free catch on Princeton's 32 yard line. Law, on the first lineup instantly returned the ball to the Harvard 37 yard line. The Harvard back almost fumbled the ball. One line plunge through the center netted

Harvard two yards and then Harvard punted to Baker on Princeton's 20 yard line. Law punted to Harvard's 48 yard line where Ballin downed Brickley. Harvard here tried the Princeton line but was able to make only one yard through Semmons.

Hardwick kicked a high spiral of which Baker made a beautiful catch and was downed on his own 42 yard line. Streit plunged through Harvard's right tackle to the 48 yard line and then the same player made four more yards through the same place. Princeton then used Glyck for another center plunge. He made five yards and then five more was added. Harvard crumbled under the Princeton attack.

On the next play Streit tried to go through center but was thrown by Brickley and the ball was down on Harvard's 38 yard line. On a fumble, Harvard kicked to Princeton's 42 yard line, where Baker was downed. Baker was shot through Harvard's right end for five yards. Law punted to Harvard's 25 yard line where Logan made a fair catch.

Shea Badly Injured

On a fake formation Hardwick made ten yards around Princeton's right side. On the last scrimmage Shea was badly injured and Lambertson took his place at right end.

Hardwick kicked out of bounds to Baker on Princeton's 42 yard line. Lambertson returned the ball to Harvard's 22 yard line, where Logan made a free catch. Brickley tried Princeton's center and struggled through for three yards and then Hardwick tried the left side of Princeton's line but was unable to make any impression. He kicked to Princeton's 45 yard line. Baker made five yards before he was downed. Streit went through Harvard's center for ten yards. He was again entrusted with the ball and this time made five yards. A third try by the same player netted but two yards. Rain began falling heavily again.

Tried Field Goal

From the 11 yard line Baker then tried a field goal and failed. Harvard put the ball in play on her own 20 yard line and Hardwick failed to gain around the Tiger's left end, Streit making a fine tackle. A line plunge by Brickley gave Harvard one yard and then Hardwick punted to the Princeton 43 yard line. Captain Baker making a free catch. On the next play Streit tried the Crimson center but failed to gain. On a fake kick formation Glyck made ten yards around Harvard's left and making a first down. Streit placed the ball on Harvard's 42 yard line on his favorite hole in Harvard's center. Another line plunge and the ball was on the Princeton 43 yard line where it remained when time was called for the end of the first period.

All during the first quarter the play was in Harvard's territory except when the ball was punted back into Princeton ground. Law outpunted Hardwick and Princeton made first downs to Harvard's none. It was teeming rain when the second quarter opened.

Second Quarter

Glyck on the first lineup smashed through the Harvard line for another ten yards. On the second lineup the same player added two more. Streit kept up his consistent work, hammering the Harvard first defense and put five more yards on Princeton's gain. An intricate wing shift did not fool Harvard, though it gained two yards and Princeton lost the ball on downs on Harvard's 13 yard line. Harvard kicked to midfield.

Tigers Penalized

Law punted to Logan on the Crimson 15-yard line. Offside play on the part of Princeton cost the Tigers five yards. Hardwick punted to Princeton's 45-yard line, where Baker was downed by the omnipresent Brickley. On a fake formation Princeton was able to make but one yard through left tackle. Law's kick was blocked and Harvard recovered the ball on Princeton's 29-yard line. Harvard lost one yard trying Princeton's center. Brickley settled back as if for a field goal, but Harvard fooled the Tigers and made a line plunge for two yards.

Harvard Scores

Then Brickley booted a beautiful field goal from Princeton's 20-yard line. Baker kicked off for Princeton to Harvard's 10-yard line. Mahan, who went in for Bradlee, dashed down the field for 15 yards, wriggling through the Tigers' opposition. Rain made the field slippery. Harvard punted to Princeton's 35-yard line. All the players were covered with mud and the game was played while the Tigers wiped the mud out of their eyes. Law punted to Logan on Harvard's 25-yd. line and lost two yards when he was tackled. Hardwick returned the punt at once to Princeton's 10-yard line, where Baker made a free catch. Then the sun came out and there was a cheer.

Mahan Makes Great Run

Law returned the punt to Harvard's 25 yard line where Mahan caught the ball and made a wonderful run, aided by splendid interference to Princeton's 25 yard line. Harvard tried the Princeton line on the left side without gain. Brickley here stepped back for another try at field goal but, slipping, failed to make the play. By this time the players were so covered with mud that it was difficult to recognize them. A towel was brought out and the mud was rubbed from the ball. Law punted out to Mahan on Harvard's 45 yard mark, Semmons bringing him down after he had covered 20 yards. Hardwick made eight yards around Princeton's left side. Mahan made one more yard and then Hardwick made two yards, giving Harvard a first down. Princeton was off-side on the next play and was penalized five yards, giving the Crimson another first down. The ball was now on Princeton's 35 yard line.

Brickley Makes Gain

A center plunge by Brickley gave Harvard five more yards. At this point F. Trankman took Streit's place. Harvard essayed a forward pass but Law

Mayor O'Donnell's ANNOUNCEMENT

HON. JAMES E. O'DONNELL.

TO THE PEOPLE OF LOWELL:—

I hereby announce to you my candidacy for the office of mayor. It is my proud privilege and honor to have been your selection as the first mayor under the new charter, and during my term of office it has been my utmost concern to render to the people of Lowell the best that was in me, in the administration of the city's affairs.

In all that I have done, and in all that I have attempted to do, my primal thought was over to conserve the integrity of our city and to perpetuate the good name which its people, its industries and its institutions already hold throughout the entire state.

I can affirm without fear of contradiction that Lowell, under our commission form of government, stands out pre-eminently as the best governed city, the most orderly city, and one of the soundest cities, financially, within our commonwealth, and as a proof of that assertion I ask you to compare Lowell with Lawrence, with Fall River, with Cambridge, with Lynn, Salem, Brockton or Taunton. Ask the bureau of statistics, and do not place credence in the empty utterances of those who are actuated only by their inane ambition to occupy public office at a cost even of besmirching the name of the people of Lowell, its institutions, its history and its best traditions; and of traducing the present good order and prosperity of its people.

I shall make no appeal to men's passions or prejudices; I shall seek no quarrel with any of my opponents, but I shall ever stand ready to defend the administration of the city's affairs during my term in office, and in doing so, I shall not stoop to vilification, slander or calumny.

From the temper already shown, however, by my opponents, in their wild scamper for the office of mayor, I am forced to conclude that their agitation is of the "holier than thou" type; and if that be so, I shall be prepared for them and I shall neither give quarter nor expect to receive it.

I stand squarely on my record and I make no claims which that does not substantiate. Under difficulties which only one in the chair of your chief executive knows, I have striven honestly to give you of my best, and if again selected to head the affairs of the city of Lowell, I shall do my utmost to fulfill the duties of mayor, fairly, honorably and efficiently.

Yours sincerely,
JAMES E. O'DONNELL.

ORDERS THAW BACK TO N.Y.

Gov. Felker Grants State's Petition for
Extradition of Fugitive---Case Now
Goes Into the U.S. Courts

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 8.—Governor Samuel B. Felker this morning granted the petition of the state of New York for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw, charged with conspiracy to escape from the asylum at Matteawan. The case now goes into the United States courts. Thaw's attorneys announced they would file immediately an amendment to their petition for a writ of habeas corpus now pending in the federal court. The original habeas corpus petition was based on the allegation that Thaw had been indicted for conspiracy by the Dutchess county grand jury and was suspended pending the governor's decision on the extradition. Because the extradition was granted on account of the New York county indictment it will be necessary to

KILLED BY WIFE

Ipswich Man Passed Her Gun to Shoot Field Rat and it Exploded

IPSWICH, Nov. 8.—John E. Hayes, 43 years old, caretaker at the Peabody House, Ipswich, was shot and instantly killed by his wife, Martha A. Hayes, 35 years old, at 6 o'clock last night while he was passing to her a 44-calibre automatic revolver with which to shoot a field rat standing outside the kitchen window, according to the story told the police by Mrs. Hayes. Hayes and his wife lived alone in a two-room cottage on Eagle Hill, in the outskirts of Ipswich, seven miles from the center of the town. They were awaiting supper when Mrs. Hayes, according to the story she told the police, walked to the kitchen window and saw a field rat in the yard near the window. She told her husband and he urged her to get the revolver from the bureau and shoot at it. Mrs. Hayes had recently taught his wife, she says to shoot at any rat she might see about the premises. He went to the bureau, got the revolver and held it out to his wife. The muzzle of the automatic revolver was pointed toward Hayes as the wife reached with both hands to secure a firm hold of it. When her hands grasped the revolver it went off. Hayes fell to the floor dead, with a bullet through his heart. Mrs. Hayes placed a pillow under his head as he lay on the threshold of the kitchen leading from the kitchen and in the room to the chamber. She then hurriedly left the house and went to the cottage of Otis Engles, half a mile away. Mr. Engles is a caretaker for the estate of A. B. Clarke of Peabody and told him of the accident. The police hastened to Ipswich and sought out the police, to whom Mrs. Hayes told her tale. Mrs. Hayes was placed under arrest. Medical Examiner Guy D. Bailey was summoned. The police, medical examiner and Engles then proceeded in all haste to the Peabody House on Eagle Hill. The physical details of the shooting as told by Mrs. Hayes were borne out by what the officers and medical examiner saw at the house. Hayes had been instantly killed by a bullet that pierced his heart at close range. His shirt was burned and the black amduge spots of powder were numerous about the blood-stained shirt. It was planned to take the body to Ipswich and to hold an autopsy at once. The autopsy will be performed today. Hayes was a native of Ipswich, and was comfortably well off. He divided his time between clam digging and crabs, which is a resort frequented in season by men who hunt birds along the shore. He was well thought of, and had many friends. His father, Smith Hayes of Ipswich, is retired. He had two brothers, George H. Hayes, manager of a grocery store in Ipswich, and Charles G. Hayes, grocer of Wenham. He had two sisters, both living in Ipswich, Mrs. Walter Sheppard and Mrs. Charles Choate. Four months ago, Hayes married a Boston woman and took her to his recent home, in which he had previously lived alone. Nothing is known here of Mrs. Hayes other than that she seemed to devote all her time to the duties of her household.

ST. RV. MEN'S ANNUAL BALL

Held at Associate Hall Last Evening With Large Attendance

Good Music, Pretty Decorations and General Good Time

Over 600 people assembled in Associate hall last night to attend the eighth annual concert and ball of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America. Among those present were many railway employees and friends from Lawrence, Haverhill, Nashua and Woburn and all seemed delighted with the evening's program.

The commodious hall was profusely decorated with pink and white as the prevailing colors, but nearly every other color in the rainbow was represented and the scene was very attractive. The front of the balcony was covered with bunting, while streamers of various colors extended from the center to all corners of the hall. From the chandelier were lines of colored lights and artificial pink flowers appeared at intervals. The lower hall was outlined in masses of pink, blue and white.

On the stage, which was backed ground in light blue, were placed numerous ferns and potted plants. A large silk American flag hung from the ceiling adding much to the attractiveness of the scene. Music of various kinds, including numerous piano and potted plants furnished music during the evening.

Promptly at 8 o'clock a musical program which included selections by the

LEO F. MORRIS, Floor Director

Paragon quartet, composed of Andrew Doyle, James H. Lyons, A. J. Lindsay and R. M. Lindsay was given. The numbers were very pleasing and the musicians were given a great ovation when they concluded. Helen Pollard also entertained with recitations.

Dancing, the main feature of the evening, was started at 9 o'clock and an order consisting of 20 numbers and several extras was carried out, the party lasting until 1 o'clock.

Each person who attended was presented a pretty souvenir containing the names of the officers of the party and printed on the front of the little booklet was a unique railway scene.

All in all, last night's affair was one of the most successful ever held by the street railway men. As the happy young people left the hall special care was taken along Merrimack street and carried the passengers to all parts of the city.

The officers of the hall were: General manager, Fred Crowley; assistant general manager, John D. Rorand; floor director, Leo F. Morris; assistant floor director, George Newell; banjo chief, Dona Primeau; recording secretary, Charles A. Galagher; treasurer, Thos. Flynn; financial secretary, Joseph Kearns; Aides: John Lyons, John Donovan, Chas. Tilton, Terrence O'Rourke, Chas.

FACT

Local Evidence

Evidence that can be verified. Fact is what we want. Opinion is not enough. Opinions differ. Here's a Lowell fact. You can test it.

Samuel Clark, 436 Worthen street, Lowell, Mass., says: "I was taken suddenly with kidney trouble while working in the shop. Sharp pains came on across my back and I nearly fainted. I was laid up for two weeks under the care of a doctor, but his medicine did me no good. Finally the kidney secretions became unnatural and caused me no end of distress. I finally read of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. Three boxes cured me, and I have not been bothered by kidney trouble since."

Re-endorsement

When Mr. Clark was interviewed by our representative on April 4, 1913, he said: "You may continue to publish the statement I gave some time ago recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. I think as highly of the remedy as ever." Foster-McBurn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Providence Mayor Brings Mother and Daughter Together After Long Separation

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 8.—Mayor Joseph H. Gainer yesterday brought about the reunion of a mother and daughter who had not seen each other for 15 years, and neither of whom had known anything of the other's whereabouts.

The girl, Miss Lena Beldson, of Detroit, Mich., recently heard that her mother was in this city and came here a few days ago to find her. She enlisted the aid of the mayor, who, with the assistance of the police, found the mother and effected the meeting.

FORGOT ONE WIFE

Providence Optician Arrested and Held on Charge of Bigamy

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 8.—Frank J. Johnson, a Providence optician, who married Miss Sarah Callahan at Central Falls last May, told his first wife yesterday that he forgot he married her and that until she confronted him he never knew he was the father of three children. The first Mrs. Johnson believes that her husband is telling the truth, and her family physician apparently believes likewise, as both claim he is suffering from a peculiar mental ailment that causes him to wander and do things unknowingly.

The second Mrs. Johnson, or Mrs. Jackson, cannot believe that her husband was ever married before.

The result of it all is that Johnson is now under arrest, and unless he can prove to the authorities that the peculiar hallucinations that have caused him to wander in many and varied directions are due to a mental ailment, he may have to answer to a charge of bigamy.

When Johnson was confronted yesterday by his first wife he is said to have admitted that he was her husband.

Johnson has been living under the name of Frank J. Jackson. Sometime ago he went to work as an optician for a large Providence concern and this proved his undoing.

One of his employers happened to glance over the files of an optical journal and in an old issue he saw a photo of Johnson and an account of his disappearance. Quietly he began an investigation. He saw that Jackson looked like Johnson, and the similarity of names led him to feel certain that Jackson was Johnson.

The police were communicated with and Mrs. Johnson was notified. Yesterday, after talking with her husband, she said that once before during their marriage life he disappeared for three months. Upon his return, she said, he could not tell where he had been.

This caused him to visit the family physician, she said. The doctor told her that Johnson suffered from a mental disease of some kind and she feels that her husband is telling the truth when he says he forgot he ever married her.

Mrs. Jackson at her home at 402 Southfield avenue last night said she was dumfounded. She could not believe her husband had been previously married.

Johnson told his wife that after he disappeared he remembered nothing until he awoke one day and found himself living with a woman who was his wife. Even then, he said, he did not recall that he had a wife and three children living in Brookline.

CURLEY WARNS FITZ

SAYS BOSTON MAYOR CANNOT RUN FOR RE-ELECTION AND U. S. SENATOR LATER

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Congressman James M. Curley was around town last evening looking after his nomination papers for mayor.

"I don't know whether Mayor Fitzgerald is going to run or not," he said, "but I do know that he must make up his mind pretty soon and also that he cannot run for mayor and later for United States senator. Some of the rest of us must get a look in. We will not stand for one man hogging both jobs."

"Does that mean that you may be a candidate for United States senator?" asked the reporter.

"I'll cross that bridge when I come to it," was the congressman's answer.

It was said last night that Francis L. Bangs, whom the republican city committee has endorsed as the republican candidate for mayor, will decline the nomination. One of his close friends said he did want one of the nominations for the city council and that his supporters were pained when they heard that the league had turned him down.

"Pape's" Diapiesin Digests Food When Stomach Can't—Cures Indigestion

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly, ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: Pape's Diapiesin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapiesin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapiesin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large 50c case of Pape's Diapiesin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

CRUSHED BY DRAY

Brighton Teamster Was Killed by His Own Wagon

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—John Crawley of Hillside avenue, Brighton, after being thrown from the seat of a wagon he was driving on Marginal street, Chelsea, about 6 o'clock last evening, was run over, receiving injuries which resulted in his death a few hours later at the Frost hospital.

The wheels of the heavily loaded wagon passed over Crawley's chest, crushing him. Crawley was driving a wagon owned by the Boston & Albany company and was returning to Brighton when the accident occurred. The forward wheels swerved suddenly upon striking an obstacle in the road and Crawley, who held a loose rein, was thrown into the street.

would start with the figure 2, all in East Boston with the figure 3, and so on.

Minimum of System Under the present system the boxes are located with a minimum amount of system and serial numbers are often far apart. If a box is not understood properly, it frequently causes the firemen great confusion.

It is proposed to divide the city proper into two sections, beginning at the foot of the Charlestown bridge with the dividing line, along North Washington street, Hanover and Tremont to the centre of Massachusetts avenue. There two main divisions will be sub-divided into districts, each with its guide number.

All schools, theatres and institutions which possess private boxes will be included in the district numbers like any other box. All boxes with a zero in them will be eliminated. Old box

ES, under the new system, will be known as 1433.

The plan is not yet perfected, and it is thought it will take several months to complete the system. The first new box to be placed will be 1331, at the corner of State and Kilby streets.

SEE GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

E. T. Ripley, president of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad company, speaking of railroads and the attitude which the government has assumed toward them, said that he believed government ownership was certain. Mr. Ripley said in part:

"A system whereby private individuals furnish money, but have practically no voice in the management may go along temporarily, and be previously acquired velocity, but cannot long endure. The certain result will be government ownership of railroads. Few want this now and practically everybody realizes it would be about the worst thing that could happen to the government."

"When railroads fail to give the public all its wants, as they will under present conditions, there will come the demand that the government step into the breach. But while it comes a little late it is pleasant to observe that the chairman of the interstate commerce commission has at last observed that congress and the states assisted by the body over which he so ably presides have at last brought railroads to the point where they can go no further."

"Do not infer that I am opposed to some regulation of railroads. Even the interstate commerce commission has with all its criticisms and absurdities has by no means been an unmitigated evil. A rate making commission elected by popular vote is manifestly and inevitably partisan, and the commission appointed by an executive officer is usually merely a reward for political activity, so chances for impartial judgment are small indeed."

"A commission appointed with a sole view to fitness and capability and for long terms with good salaries should be of much use to the public and railroads, this supplying particularly to state commissions."

RETIREMENT OF HUERTA

Government Officials at Washington Watch the Progress of Negotiations at Mexico

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—No announcement was made at the White House or state department as to the progress of the negotiations being made by Charles O'Shaughnessy and John Lind in Mexico City to bring about the retirement of Huerta. Though there have been intimations that Huerta would reflect the American demands, the next step is dependent on the receipt of an absolute and final answer. In the meantime diplomatic pressure from many quarters is being brought to bear with hope for the success of the negotiations.

President Wilson went going early today. Secretary Bryan said he had nothing to say.

LICENSE COMMISSION MEET

The license commission held a special meeting this morning and several minor licenses were granted.

HARVARD 3, PRINCETON 0

Caught it and it was Princeton's law on her own 16 yard line. Law punted to midfield but the Harvard backs misjudged the ball and it rolled to the Crinson 43 yard line before Harvard recovered it. Harvard tried the Princeton line without gain and then Harvard kicked to Baker on Princeton's 43 yard mark. Law immediately returned the punt to the Crinson's 39 yard line.

Harvard butted the Princeton line for one yard and there the period ended.

Through Harvard was outplayed in the first period by Princeton, the Cambridge players developed more strength in the second quarter. During the first period the Harvard line melted before the fierce onslaught of Princeton, gains being made for from five to ten yards, through the center and tackle of the visiting players.

Harvard Came Back

In the second period Harvard seemed to pull themselves together and took a lot of the speed and force out of the Princeton attack. The three points scored by Brickley's field goal was made possible by fumble of the slippery ball by Law with down in his own territory. Harvard recovered the ball and it appeared to be a question of a few yards before Harvard would make a score. Brickley's field goal was an easy one. Ball fell heavily during most of the first half of the game. The field was a sea of mud and the players were soaked to the skin and black with dirt. The sky cleared and the sun shone beautifully when the second period ended.

Put on Dry Uniforms

Both teams came on the field with clean, dry uniforms. Harvard mean and some of the Princeton men had rosin on their backs for the players to use on their hands on. Street returned to the game in place of Trekmann. Baker kicked off to Harvard's 30-yard line. Gilman made the catch. On a fake kick formation Storrier tried Princeton's right tackle and made but two yards, being tackled by Lamberton. Harvard kicked to Baker on Princeton's 30-yard line. Baker fumbled the ball and Glyck recovered it. Law immediately punted out of bounds to Harvard's 48 yard mark. Bradley, who took Mahan's place, made three yards around Princeton's right end and on the next play the same player failed to gain through the line, being tackled by Storrier. Baker kicked the forward pass, but it rounded, Harvard punted to Baker on Princeton's 26-yard line. Princeton tried a right wing shift on Hitchcock for little gain. Baker tried to go around Harvard's right side and was thrown for a loss.

Philips Makes Fine Tackle

Law punted the ball being almost blocked and it was Harvard's ball on her own 45-yard line mark. Harvard failed to gain through Princeton's left tackle, Philips making a fine tackle. Harvard was here penalized 15 yards for holding. Harvard on a series-plays against left tackle was tackled by Baker for a loss and then Harvard punted to Law who ran the ball back 15 yards, going out of bounds on Harvard's 45-yard line. Street tried to go through Penneck and failed to gain. He was again given the ball and this time made several yards. On a delayed pass Glyck made first down for Princeton planting the ball on Harvard's 26-yard line. Street again tried to go through Penneck and made about two feet. Glyck tried to get around the Harvard left end and was thrown for a loss of five yards by O'Brien. Baker failed to gain around the Crinson right end. With only one down and 15 yards to gain, Street tried a forward pass. It was successfully caught, but it failed to give Princeton her first down and it was Harvard's ball on her own 45-yard line. Harvard punted to Princeton's 32-yard line and Law returned the ball to Harvard territory. Harvard misjudged the ball and it rolled into Harvard's 15-yard line. Harvard kicked the punt to Baker who made a fair catch on Harvard's 46-yard line. Baker has tried a goal from place.

Brickley Ran 60 Yards

Baker here again dropped back for a field goal but the ball rolled along the ground. Mahan replaced Harvard's 30-yard line. Brickley broke through the Princeton line and ran almost 60 yards to Princeton's 20 yard line. F. Trekmann replaced Street, Harvard made four yards in deep line. Law punted to Mahan on Harvard's 35 yard line and he ran it back to Princeton's 35 yard line. A punge against Princeton's left tackle gained three yards and on the next play Brickley went through the line and ran for two yards. Bradley failed to gain through Princeton's right tackle. Harvard was penalized ten yards for an infraction of the rules and the Crinson fullback then punted to Princeton's 17 yard line. Then took Hitchcock's place. Street kicked to Mahan and the Princeton punter then kicked to Mahan on Harvard's 44 yard line. Mahan making the tackle. A line play failed to gain. Mahan punted to Baker out of bounds on Princeton's 17 yard line. Baker replaced Lamberton.

Attempted Field Goal

Brickley dropped back to Princeton's 28 yard line and tried for a field goal but it failed. Princeton put the ball in play on her 27 yard line. Law punted to Logan, who made a fair catch on Harvard's 45 yard line. Brickley tried for a goal from placement but the sudden ball would go no farther than the 16 yard line where Glyck caught it and ran it back ten yards. Law punted to Harvard's 45 yard line. Mahan kicking the catch being tackled by F. Trekmann. Bradley lost eight yards and Mahan then kicked to Baker on Princeton's 20 yard line. Law punted to Mahan on Harvard's 35 yard line and he ran it back to Princeton's 35 yard line. MAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Waltham Visitor Was Shot by Friend—He Was Visiting on Grand Street

A man named John Lynskey of Waltham was accidentally shot through the abdomen last night by a Mr. Elliott, while visiting at the home of the latter, 82 Grand street this city. Mr. Elliott was taking the gun from a bureau drawer when it accidentally went off. The bullet entered the right side of Mr. Lynskey's abdomen, penetrating the intestines, as examination at St. John's hospital later showed. Lynskey was able to walk to the home of Dr. E. G. Livingston with the assistance of two friends, and the doctor after an examination, sent for the ambulance. The injured man was conveyed to St. John's hospital. There an X-ray photograph was taken and the bullet, located in this way, was removed. Mr. Elliott was exhibiting two revolvers to young Lynskey and the latter was holding one of them at the time. The injured man is said to be employed by the Armstrong News Co. on one of the trains which passes through this city. At the hospital this morning, the authorities reported Mr. Lynskey as resting very comfortably.

NEW ART WINDOW

INSTALLED YESTERDAY IN THE CHAPEL OF THE NEW ST. PETER'S ORPHANAGE

The chapel of the magnificent new St. Peter's orphanage in Stevens street was yesterday beautified by the installation of six new stained glass windows of artistic and appropriate design. Five of these are located in the apse of the chapel, in attractive array. These were the gift of the members of St. Elizabeth's Guild, one of the oldest and best established charitable organizations in Lowell which has always manifested a deep interest in the progress of the new orphanage. The sixth window is a large one, lighting the body of the chapel. It was the gift of a friend of the orphanage. The chapel is a beautiful little edifice and its attractiveness has been greatly increased by the erection of these artistic windows.

TORPEDO BOAT LAUNCHED
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—The United States torpedo boat destroyer Downes was launched today at the yard of the United States Ship Building Co. in Camden, N. J. The warship is named for Captain Downes, who served with much gallantry in the Tripoli campaign against the Barbary pirates in the days when Americans were establishing a navy.

TREATY WITH DENMARK
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Secretary Bryan asserted today that he was negotiating with Denmark a treaty for arbitration of all questions arising, including those of national honor. The negotiations were undertaken at the initiative of Constantin Thun, Danish minister here.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

LOCAL MOTOR CAR NEWS ANNUAL MEETING

Sawyer Carriage Co. Building Big Trade—The Energetic Dealers Begin an Early Campaign

The local automobile dealers are now, it appears, preparing a campaign as a forerunner of the late winter opening of the big 1914 demand on the part of the people of this city. Needless to say, this is one of the most important factors in the business and the dealer who gets his car most before the people and most talked about by enthusiasts is bound to enjoy a successful season if he "has the goods." Of course a right publicity campaign can only be successfully accomplished by the dealers who "have the goods," and no others should attempt it.

There is a certain advantage in going about in a demonstrator car among prospective purchasers whose names are obtained in various manners, and trying to interest them in the purchase of a certain make of automobile so that when they come to decide in the spring they will remember the dealer who called upon them. This personal method has its advantages. But the number of people who can be reached in this way is limited. In business and salesmanship a limit of this kind is a dangerous thing and must be eliminated before progress can be made. The other fellow might call on and "land" a customer whom a certain dealer intended to see before the latter has a chance to include him in his canvass.

The dealers must get their arguments before all the people at this time; they must have an effect upon buyers long before the most active season opens, accepting that at this time the salesmen are experiencing what they call the dull season. A large number are realizing that fact now, and in the auto page of The Sun are conducting an effective campaign. That this auto page is read by the people interested in motor cars and by many others in whom an interest may be aroused cannot be denied.

A Progressive Manufacturer
The writer, while making the rounds of the dealers yesterday, called at the Sawyer Carriage company in Worthen street and was surprised to learn of the extent of the business that progressive plant. Mr. Chandler conducted the automobile page man on a brief tour of inspection of his factory. What is of the greatest interest to the readers of this page is the automobile department which is situated in a special building adjoining the large factory, and which does a remarkably large business. Here every detail of auto repairing is attended to in a competent manner by skilled workmen.

Over this smaller building are the offices of the plant. The main floor of the big building is the blacksmith and machine department. Here forgings are made for many prominent Lowell firms. Springs are made and repaired, bent axles put into shape and all other similar work done on carriages and automobiles. On the second floor is the woodwork portion of the manufactory where the bodies of the carriages are made. This is a most interesting department and an excellent specimen of the work may be seen. Next step is the making and fitting of the trimmings, tops, curtains, etc., for both automobiles and carriages, and the Sawyer company has a large trade in this branch. The top floor of the building is where the carriage and auto painting is done. This is a specialty of the plant, especially at this time of the year, when many will soon place their cars in storage for the winter.

The Stewart truck is sold by the Sawyer company and with great success. The qualities of this truck are well recognized and have placed it among the leaders. It has made a big hit with Lowell merchants.

Busk "Six" Here
The Buick "six" demonstrator car was in the city yesterday at the Buick company salesrooms in Appleton street and in the short space of time it remained in this city was seen and admired by a large number of enthusiasts. Visitors were pleased with demonstrations. The car is a fine specimen of construction and is a Buick that should be even more popular than are the other models, which are seen everywhere about the city today. The Buick company of Lowell will have its own "six" to show its many customers.

New Goods at Pitts'
Mr. Pitts has received a large new stock of automobile equipment, such as lamps, clocks, etc., for the Christmas trade and anticipates a large demand in this line. He will place them in the forward and is confident that it is one which will appeal to those who are looking for sensible and useful gifts for their friends. The stock includes many novelties and improvements.

That Motor Mart
The sale of the Ford cars goes on constantly and with business as great as it is at the present time which is looked upon as the dull season by many dealers. Mr. Rochette, the proprietor of the Lowell Motor Mart, is confident that this spring's sales will constitute a record.

CONVICTS IN ROAD WORK

THIRTEEN STATES PASSED LAWS IN THIS REGARD DURING THE PRESENT YEAR

Thirteen states passed laws during the present year allowing the use of convicts in the construction and repair of highways, according to a compilation by Dr. E. Stagg Whittin, assistant in social legislation in Columbia university, and chairman of the executive committee of the national committee on prison labor. They are Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, New Jersey, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Vermont, West Virginia and Wisconsin. As many other states had previously passed similar legislation, but few of the 48 states have not each the wisdom of using prisoners to build and maintain public roads.

West Virginia and Iowa are the two states whose laws regarding the working of convicts on highways stand out most prominently. So anxious was the governor of the former to secure an effective law that he came to New York and, with the assistance of representatives of the national committee on prison labor, of the road department of Columbia university and of the legislative drafting bureau worked out bills making compulsory the employment of convicts on the roads.

The West Virginia law authorizes the county courts to make appropriations out of road funds for convicts' work; it states that the court shall sentence any male person over 16 to road-work instead of to the county jail; persons charged with misdemeanors unable to furnish bail shall work on the roads, and, if acquitted when tried, shall be paid 50 cents a day for each day's work they perform; justices of the peace shall sentence to work on the roads persons convicted of crime whom otherwise they would send to the county jail.

Another feature of the West Virginia law is the establishment of a state road bureau to supervise any plans proposed by a county for using prison labor in road-building. The plans approved, the county shall apply to the board of control for the number of prisoners required, and shall state the length of time they shall be needed. The board shall, so far as possible, give equal service to each of the counties, and shall determine which prisoners may be assigned to such work. The warden is to provide suitable and movable quarters, which shall be built, where possible, by convict labor. The convicts shall remain under direct control of the warden, their work, however, being under the supervision of the road bureau.

In Iowa the board of control of the state institutions, with the advice of the warden of any penal institution, may permit able-bodied male prisoners to work on the roads. The law specifically states such labor shall not be leased to contractors. A prisoner opposed to such work, or whose character and disposition make it probable that he would attempt escape or be unruly, is not to be worked on the highways. Although the prisoners are under the jurisdiction of the warden while building or repairing roads, their work is supervised by the state highway commissioner. Prisoners employed on the highways of Iowa receive such part of their earnings, above the cost of their keep, as the board deems equitable, the earnings either being funded or given to their dependent families.

Before Iowa passed her present prison labor law, George W. Coston, attorney general of Iowa, and a member of the national committee on prison labor, made a thorough investigation of the prisons of his own and other states, and strongly denounced the contract system, under which prisoners were employed up to that time. Mr. Coston drew up the road bill, and is of the opinion it will do much to drive the contract system out of the country.

ECONOMY OF MOTOR CAR

"That the motor car represents an economic saving there is no denying," said a prominent dealer recently. "It has been proven repeatedly that it is a time, labor and money saving vehicle. It has been demonstrated in public tests as well as by every day usage that the motor car is a utility vehicle as well as one for pleasure. A utility motor car is not always the so-called commercial vehicle for the familiar motor truck. Any motor car, whether it is fitted with a motor, stator, touring or other body, so long as it is used for business purposes in any manner, is a utility vehicle and represents an economic saving. "If the banker uses his car to quickly carry him to his office then that car is making money for him. It is saving his time and time is money. This not only applies to the banker, but to the merchant, doctor, farmer, real estate dealer or to any owner who uses his car in any way that is not strictly for pleasure. "It is this phase of the industry that has made it leap with unprecedented rapidity—that has caused all manufacturing records to be smashed and created an industry that its like has never been seen in the industrial world."

Historic Richmond is preparing for the annual meeting of the American Automobile association, to be held December 1, 2 and 3, in a manner which insures that the twelfth yearly gathering of the National organization of motor-car users will be the most notable in its history.

President Preston Belvin of the Virginia State Automobile association and President-elect C. E. Watkins of the Richmond club are chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the local committee of arrangements which intend that the visitors shall see the southern city at its best.

In the official call that has gone forth to the A. A. clubs and members generally, President Laurens Enos directs attention to the fact that the accredited delegates must be accompanied by as many members of clubs as can respond to the "On to Richmond" call so insistently set forth by the Virginians. Says President Enos: "I am confident this visit to the Southland will be thoroughly enjoyable, for Richmond's historic surroundings and well-known hospitality,—in which your wives and daughters are cordially invited to participate,—will supply a combination of rare promise and certain fulfillment."

Monday will be devoted to morning and afternoon business sessions, including the reading of the annual reports, appointment of the nominating committee, and addresses relating to the most important work of the association. On Wednesday morning there will be the election of officers and the consideration of new business.

On Monday evening an entertainment of a distinctly southern character will be provided by the Richmond committee. Richmond will be given over to seeing Richmond and vicinity, and the annual banquet that night at the Jefferson hotel, in which the business meetings will also take place.

Speakers of prominence at the banquet will include Governor Munro, Governor-elect Stewart, Mayor Ainsley and Henry W. Anderson, whose talks on federal aid in highways progress have always been enthusiastically received. All ex-presidents of the A. A.—Chase, Lee, Henshaw, Speare and Hooper—will give an opportunity to participate in the rapid-fire oratory.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

OPERA HOUSE

"The best yet" was the verdict of the large audience at the Opera House last night, after seeing the big Western feature, "The Lady of the Lake." This visualized story of Sir Walter Scott's beautiful poem contains a tale of adventure that you will surely enjoy. The atmosphere of the beautiful hills of Scotland in the strenuous fighting days of the period is perfectly carried out. The scenes throughout being exceptionally beautiful. The island scene, or the home of Douglas, cost over a thousand dollars for the time and expense of arranging the scene artistically and appropriately for the action of the play, which is an example of the highest order can be seen in this work. This feature, which will be offered to the last time tonight, is not only a classic but one that will delight the young and old alike.

H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
One of the most novel animal acts in the world today will be seen at the H. F. Keith theatre next week. Prince Emil, a Russian and one of the most famous and best trained animals in the world, will appear with his eight trained polar bears, which have been trained by him in the little Russian village of Schistra, in the province of Argo, Siberia.

This act appears at the Keith Boston theatre this week, and much comment has been aroused by the fact that there are four brown and cinnamon bears trained and brought onto the stage in past years, but nobody has ever seen a polar bear in a circus before. It is a circus is fortunate to possess one he is usually pacing back and forth within a small iron cage. But he doesn't do any stunts.

240 years which Prince Emil have are Wrangell island polar bears. Four of them were caught as cubs by the prince, some seven years ago. Originally there were twelve of them, but since arriving in America four have fallen ill and have died. They came here during the heat of the summer and it was with difficulty that the present set was nursed along to colder weather. A double horse-drawn sled has been ordered from the Goro company for each day that the bears appear at the theatre.

Polar bears are less intelligent and agile than the brown or cinnamon bears, which are generally shown. They are also much larger, approximately in size a mammoth grizzly bear when fully grown, and stand 6 feet in length and weigh nearly 1000 pounds. Their staple diet is fresh fish. In their native habitat they swim a great deal and are frequently seen on the ice. They are a human being and sometimes hunters find it necessary to put several large bullets into them before they succumb. They have been used in the Arctic for transport. Nearly all other animals do. They have to be constantly rewarded for their stunts and if ice cakes were used during the winter they would perform since they would become unmanageable. Mr. Fear alone has conquered them. Prince Emil is a large man, possessing great strength and endurance. He is a bear. His personality and the place is responsible for the taming of these bears.

Norina Carman and her six merry acrobats will appear during the week. Mrs. Carman is endowed with grace, beauty and ability and her elegant industrial first part will prove a well-earned feature of the show. The Dixie Quartet, a quartet of singers which has given a good account of itself, is included in the act, and Miss Carman and Walter Connolly will appear in some fetching dance numbers.

"No Trespassing" is the catchy title of a superb musical act featured by Louis J. Winsch and Miss Josephine Moore. The scenic accessories are more than ordinarily elaborate. The two artists are carried exclusively by the act. The first shows a crab apple orchard in full bloom, and over twenty hanging plants are required to make this set.

Clark and Verill, "Those Two Italians," will purvey sweet melodies. The former is a banjoist, the latter a violinist, and wherever they have appeared they have pleased very large gatherings. J. Warren Keane and company, including Miss Grace White at the piano, will give "The Quality Act." It is just what its title implies, quiet, polished, attractive. Miss Rae Meyers is a singing comedienne, and her act is a fine one. King and Kingman comedy acrobats, will show a few new quips to the acrobatic line. Then, of course, there is the intellectual treat at the close of the show, the Pathé collection of pictures taken in all parts of the world. Good seats may be obtained in advance. Phone 23.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"The Belle of Richmond," a melodrama of rare merit, is to be the week offering by the Merrimack Square Theatre Players commencing Monday afternoon. The piece is in four acts and ranks with the very highest types of plays of its kind ever staged. The story which it relates concerns the aristocracy of the south and is interestingly told. Its characters are the kind that abound in the southland, while the action of the piece and its numerous side scenes contribute masterfully in making it one of exceptional merit.

Miss Grace Young, the popular leading woman of the south, whose charm and wonderfully pleasing presence will surely appeal strongly to all Water Street Week, as the dashingly young southerner who finds himself misled against great odds in his courtship for the rich southern and truth, should add to his laurels already won, and John Charles, an actor of the finished type, will also be sure to social advantage. The other members of the cast will be properly assigned. Mr. Sidney will supervise the staging of the piece, a fact that should give the patrons sufficient assurance that it will be properly and artistically put on. Miss Young will introduce some of her newest creations in gowns during the progress of the piece. The first performance will be given Monday afternoon and should be preceded by a late and most interesting feature, which will be the usual series of high-class motion pictures, including a Keystone comedy, a dramatic offering and the ever-popular Mutual Weekly. As a special attraction at the Sunday afternoon and evening concerts Manager Carroll has secured, at extra cost, the first motion picture shown at the Catholic Missionary Congress, recently held in Boston. Church dignitaries from all over the world were in attendance at this gathering and they will be shown at the different services and meetings held at that time. Besides this there will be a series of refined vaudeville acts and other motion pictures.

THE PLAYHOUSE
Lowell amateurs have their friends, judging by the crowds turned away from the Playhouse Friday night. The place was packed to the doors, and Manager Tebbetts was forced to discontinue the sale of tickets. It was an entertainment well worth while. Of course, it included the regular acts and moving pictures, and they found ample appreciation, but the real treat came in the presentation of the amateurs. Some of them were class, some weren't, but it was a good natured crowd, and at no time was heard that dreaded cry, "The hook!" Messrs. Jones and Finnegan, roller skate artists, were head liners as fun makers, and the first prize prize. They displayed versatility by boxing and skating simultaneously, with Finnegan adjudged the champion.

For Sunday, Manager Tebbetts announces concerts afternoon and evening by the artists that have been billed for the past three days, and on Monday an all-new bill will be put on, as follows: Jolly Fannie Hatfield company in a play, "A Manager's Troubles;" Odono, acrobatic wizard, Carl & Bartlett, in a play, "O'Brien From Galway;" Marr and Robinson, acrobatic comedians; four good pictures. Performances will be given afternoon and evening.

THE KASINO
Mines tonight and Monday night at the Kasino, with Doyle's orchestra playing Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, is the program for the coming week, and people who enjoy dancing under ideal conditions will avail themselves of the opportunity offered. The Kasino standard continues as established over a year ago, and the pace set has had many followers. These is just one Kasino.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT
Tinker's novelty dance orchestra will play a return date at Associate hall, Tuesday evening, Nov. 11. Hear the brass, marimbaphone, and male quartets, and also electric zander bells, saxophones and a trio on organ chimes. They carry $1000 worth of musical instruments. Every music lover and dancer in Lowell should hear Laura E. Tinker playing seven different instruments. Dancing starts at 8 p. m. Public invited. Adv.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

Now that it is settled that smiling Dave Walsh is to be governor for the year 1914, that the progressives are coming and that the republicans are going, we might as well kiss and make up and agree that Massachusetts will have a good governor in the gentleman whom we have elected. Let us hold up his hands and applaud every good act of his that shall redound to the glory of the commonwealth. Make no mistake but that Mr. Walsh will be the governor for all the people of the state. The Man in the Moon congratulates those with whom he is won, and sympathizes with those who lost. We no longer turn from the "square" and "triangular" contests of yesterday with relief, than we must face the turmoil and tumult of tomorrow. Eight candidates for mayor and twenty or more for aldermen and school committee. May the Lord sustain us and angels guard us as we face the situation. Also, may the Court-Citizen guide us.

Corporation Discrimination

I found out the other day that a peculiar system obtains in at least one prominent public service corporation of this town. A young man applies for a job and is told that he can go to work. The job is simple and remunerative and the pay is confined to a given amount—never more nor less. They don't want him unless he promises to remain on the job. He is given to understand that there will never be any chance for promotion or to rise to any responsible position in the company. Now this is a pretty state of things, isn't it? And I submit if it isn't the most unfair and ridiculous system you have ever heard of? This corporation is quite similar to another one here where the goats are religiously kept from ever mingling with the favored sheep, and both of these concerns get their money from the people of Lowell!

Artistic Brickwork

Bricks are so common with us as to be bricks and nothing more. We gaze at brick buildings and blank brick walls. We lift our eyes and see tall chimneys built of brick and looking down as we walk over the brick sidewalks, and there are still miles of them. We are simply concerned that we may not stumble and fall upon them. There's nothing particularly lovely about brick, either individually or collectively. We recognize its utility but, because we have seen so little of it hereabouts, we never think of associating a homely brick with beauty. Yet strange as it may seem, a pile of good bricks can be transformed, under the eye and hand of a master workman, into a thing of beauty and a joy forever. A skilled brick-mason tells me that first class brickwork is a rare exhibit in Lowell, not perhaps because we do not have first class workmen here, but because there is little or no desire for it, or that people erecting buildings will not pay for high class work. Skilled masons would tell you that, for instance, the Y. M. C. A. building is not a creditable specimen of first-class labor, and they will tell you how and why. They could point to the perfect corner of a brick wall, the perfect joint in the mortar, the perfect alignment of the bricks, and they could demonstrate what is lacking. Should you ask them if there isn't one brick building worthy of their commendation they would eagerly and gladly take you to the Locks & Canals Co.'s building opposite the Y. M. C. A. building. They would tell you that this building is the best specimen of brick work they have ever seen. They would tell you that visitors from out-of-town frequently come to Lowell whose sole object in coming is to inspect this rare piece of work. I am not sure, but I think that this building must have been built under the direction of Jas. B. Francis. It is like him. All the work done by him while at the head of the Locks & Canals was of the same thorough workmanlike character; and it's a great pity his successors haven't shown something of his mastery ability and public spirit. You who live in Lowell have you ever inspected this little building right under your noses? If you never have, don't delay going and taking a good look, after which take a look at other brick structures. You will note a difference. You will find, probably, a more perfectly built brick building anywhere than the one referred to. Yet in Lowell you will find a few brick dwelling houses which appeal to you as being easily superior to the average brick structure by way of workmanship. There is, or rather, was, one at the corner of Merrimack and Allen streets, and there is another on Merrimack street, opposite Austin street, the residence of the late Albert Wheeler, which illustrates to me how impressive and how really beautiful a brick house can be.

The Howling Game

The game of bowling is pretty well established in Lowell as the six or seven alleys would indicate. It is a good game, too, and is participated in by the young, middle-aged and old. Twenty-five or 30 years ago when bowling revived in Lowell it was welcomed even more than the flowers of May, and Palace alleys on Middlesex street was a place where early disciples of the game became devotees and even fanatics. Big pins was the game in those days; but in the years that have intervened the duck-pin game gradually asserted itself until now, in Lowell, at least, it has almost entirely driven the big fellows out of business. The candle and the Boston pins are much played here and there, but the duck-pin game has become the game of the town. When the "Les Miserables" installed their bowling alleys in their club house in East Merrimack street they became immediately popular favorites and here the game developed a high degree of efficiency. The Les Miserables alleys enjoyed a prestige for many years and in the meantime the Palace alleys disappeared. Later the Bowlsman alleys on Hurd street became the popular place and although these alleys were destroyed by fire the new alleys installed at the same location and under new management is the most popular resort for bowlers and is one of the best equipped in the state. There have since been built alleys in Centralville, Moody street, Middlesex street and upstairs in Central street. At the Highland clubhouse there are alleys and the old Vesper clubhouse also had them. At one time, such was the interest, we could go down to the "Palmer" street for the duck-pin game and skill against that of the husky fellows. I remember, too, that for a time you could enjoy yourself bowling up at the Globe house on Gorham street.

All of these public alleys appear to be enjoyed in the state. There have since been built alleys in Centralville, Moody street, Middlesex street and upstairs in Central street. At the Highland clubhouse there are alleys and the old Vesper clubhouse also had them. At one time, such was the interest, we could go down to the "Palmer" street for the duck-pin game and skill against that of the husky fellows. CARDINAL TO PRESIDE

WILL JOIN IN CELEBRATION OF PARISH WHERE HE WAS ONCE CURATE

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The golden jubilee of St. Joseph's parish, West of which the Rev. Lawrence W. Statery is pastor, will be held tomorrow. The occasion will be specially memorable because Cardinal O'Connell, who was once stationed there as a curate, will preside at the solemn high mass which will be celebrated at 11 o'clock.

In addition to Cardinal O'Connell, the Rt. Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D. D., V. G., auxiliary bishop, who was at one time a member of the parish, and a large number of priests, including the other surviving former curates and former members of the parish, who have been raised to the altar, will take part in the observance.

The chaplains to the cardinal will be the Rev. Joseph F. Coppinger, P. R., of South Boston, and the Rev. John F. Keleher of West Newton.

The celebrant of the mass will be the Rt. Rev. E. J. Moriarty, P. R., of Jamaica Plain. He will be assisted by the Rev. Denis J. Wholey, P. R., of Roxbury, as deacon; the Rev. Thomas L. Flanagan of Medford, sub-deacon, and the Rev. Walter J. Roche of St. Joseph's, master of ceremonies. The sermon will be given by the Rev. Peter J. Walsh of Waltham. The six named priests beside Father Roche will be the curates of the church.

In the evening at 7:30 solemn vespers will be sung in the presence of Bishop Anderson. The celebrant will be the pastor, Father Statery; deacon, Father Roche; sub-deacon, the Rev. Joseph J. Smith, the Revs. James H. Courtney and Peter J. McCormick will be the bishops chaplains. The sermon will be preached by Father Courtney.

Mrs. Hugh Fay and son Philip, of North Adams are staying for two weeks with the Misses Pender in West Sixth street.

INTERESTING COMPARISON

Woolen Mills of This State Pay Highest Wages

Cotton Industry Next to Rhode Island in Wage Schedule

A comparison of the wages of employees of cotton and woolen manufacturers, for the years 1907 to 1912, inclusive, in the several states where manufacturing of these commodities takes place, is shown in a recent bulletin of the United States department of labor, bureau of statistics.

In all of the comparisons, Massachusetts pays an important part, it being shown that, in the cotton industry, this state is generally second to Rhode Island, while in the woolen industry, Massachusetts very generally pays more money than does any other state in which woolen manufacturing takes place. Each branch of the industry is followed out. The workers in cotton manufacturing are first taken up.

Male card strippers touched their highest wage during the six years in 1912, when, on an average, they were paid $1.41 per hour. In 1907 they were paid $1.15 per hour, but in 1908 they dropped down to $1.08 an hour, while in 1909 they went still further down, to $1.02 an hour. From that time on their wages increased fractionally. Compared with other states, Massachusetts paid more wages for this work of card stripping than any other, with one exception, Rhode Island, which in 1912 paid on an average of $1.93 an hour.

The average pay of male drawing tenders in Massachusetts in 1912 was $1.45 an hour. This was more than at any time during the past seven years. No other state of the seven quoted had as few working hours per week as Massachusetts, except Rhode Island. In 1910 both states dropped down from 55 to 54 hours a week.

Female drawing tenders averaged $1.16 an hour, or a slight fraction under what the male workers received. In 1908 they very nearly touched the 1912 wage, getting on an average $1.14 an hour. In 1910 their wages were at low ebb, the average pay per hour being .9087. Massachusetts paid the highest average hourly pay for female drawing tenders, exceeding even Rhode Island.

Female fine spinners in Massachusetts got $1.73 an hour in 1912, the highest pay they received at any time during the past seven years. The nearest approach to this was in 1908, when they got $1.51 an hour. Rhode Island paid $1.51 an hour in 1912.

Loomfixers averaged $2.92 per hour during 1912, the highest point touched during seven years. In 1907 their average pay was $2.65 an hour, and the lowest point touched was in 1905, when $2.15 was their average pay per hour. Rhode Island, long a rival of Massachusetts in the wages paid to its workers, during last year, an average of $2.52 an hour.

Slashers got $3.31 an hour, on an average, in 1912, and in 1905 very nearly touched the same figure, getting on an average $3.05. Again, Rhode Island paid fractionally more than Massachusetts. The lowest figure received by slashers, in the past seven years, was that of 1910, when $2.06 per hour was paid.

Male frame spinners in Massachusetts averaged $1.98 an hour last year, against $1.45 for female frame spinners. Male mule spinners averaged $3.52 per hour in 1912, which was much higher than was paid to male spinners in Rhode Island. In 1910 male mule spinners got but $2.24 per hour.

Trimmers or inspectors (female) were paid $2.94 per hour in 1912, the highest pay for female trimmers. In 1907 they received a flat average of $2.12 cents an hour. The pay in Rhode Island last year averaged $1.97 per hour for this grade of work. The lowest point touched by trimmers in Massachusetts was in 1909, when $1.53 was paid.

Male weavers averaged $1.77 in Massachusetts in 1912, which was not the highest point touched in the average pay of the craft. In 1905, $1.84 per hour was the average pay. In 1914, Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island exceeded Massachusetts in average hourly pay for male weavers.

Female weavers in Massachusetts averaged $1.68 per hour, or a fraction over a cent under what male weavers received. This figure is the highest point touched by female weavers during the past seven years. New Hampshire female weavers averaged $1.70 per hour, while those of Rhode Island averaged $1.75 an hour.

In the woolen and worsted goods industry female burlers averaged $1.93 per hour, which was the highest point touched during seven years. Rhode Island burlers averaged $1.76 an hour. The figures for male dressers are available only for two years, 1911 and 1912. In the latter year Massachusetts averaged $3.70 per hour, against $2.8 an hour in Rhode Island. Male dyehouse laborers averaged $1.72 in 1912, although in 1907 they received fractionally less, or $1.61. In Rhode Island the dyehouse laborers received fractionally less in 1912 than they did in Massachusetts.

Loomfixers averaged $2.97 in 1912, or about five cents more than in 1907. The increase with the loomfixers is shown as gradual in these seven years and in 1912 it was a higher average than was paid to the loomfixers in Rhode Island, New Hampshire or any of the other states.

Female menders averaged $1.91 in Massachusetts last year, which is the highest point touched in recent years. New York paid on an average $2.09 an hour, while Rhode Island was below Massachusetts, paying but $1.89 an hour. Maine frame spinners averaged $1.90 in 1912, $1.16 in 1911 and $1.52 in 1910. No figures are available from other states for these years.

Female frame spinners were paid on an average, $1.58 an hour in 1912, which is the highest average among any of the states, with Rhode Island second, paying an average of $1.81 an hour. New Jersey paid $1.218 and the other states averaged $1.47.

Male mule spinners were paid on an hourly average, in 1912, $2.29 in Massachusetts. The nearest approach to this in Massachusetts, during the past seven years, was in 1907, when $2.21 was paid. Rhode Island did not touch the 1912 average, paying but $2.88 an hour. New Hampshire paid $2.14 and Maine paid $2.51 an hour. Other states averaged $2.33.

Female twistlers averaged $1.81 an hour in 1912, although some other states averaged $1.51. Male weavers got, on an average, in 1912, $1.73 an hour, with Rhode Island $1.75, $1.51 in 1911 and $1.51 in 1910. The Massachusetts average of last year was much higher than had been paid in any other year. In 1909 an average of only $1.75 was paid to male weavers in Massachusetts. The average of Connecticut in 1912 was $1.48 and the average of several other states was $1.23.

Female weavers received, for an hourly average, last year, $1.68 in Massachusetts, this being higher than any other state quoted. In 1909, $1.71 was the hourly average. In 1912, New York paid on an average of $1.70 and Rhode Island averaged $1.51. Other states averaged $1.52.

Woolers in Massachusetts last year averaged $2.74 an hour, although this figure is beaten by Rhode Island, which averaged $2.77 an hour. Other states averaged $2.55.

OFFERED TO START FIRE

MRS. BENNETT, A WIDOW, CLAIMS THAT LAWYER VOLUNTEERED TO BURN PUTNAM FOUNDRY

WILLIAMANTIC, Conn., Nov. 8.—The state continued its evidence against Frank E. Howarth, the young Putnam lawyer accused of arson, and his companion, Lindley Cain, a superior court messenger. When court adjourned yesterday afternoon until next week, the state's chief witness, Mrs. Zola Bennett, a widow, who had acted as a detective in securing evidence, had completed her testimony, and State Policeman Robert T. Hurley had begun testifying in corroboration of her evidence. It was understood that Cain, who has not yet been put on trial, has made a confession implicating Howarth.

Mrs. Bennett's testimony yesterday related to conversations with Howarth, which she says were recorded on a telephone device in the Brooklyn jail, where the accused were placed after arrest. Howarth is said to have told Cain they would "get out all right," as the state "had nothing on them." She told of conversations with Howarth in her home, during which Howarth promised to burn a mine shaft in Colorado, which she told him she wanted destroyed. Howarth cited some of the Putnam fires as evidence of his qualifications.

Hurley testified that he was in an adjoining room to the widow and Howarth when their conversation took place. He recorded everything they said on a telephone device. According to Hurley, Howarth asserted it was an easy thing to start a fire and avoid being caught. He would guarantee to burn the Putnam foundry by the use of his location, but he wouldn't guarantee to fire the Putnam inn "because there were too many people there."

TO ST. PETERSBURG COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Russian government has notified the United States that Henry Pindell of Peoria, Ill., will be persona grata to the St. Petersburg court. Mr. Pindell's nomination is expected to go to the senate soon, though he may not go to his post until February.

GIVE AWAY COAL

State Inspector Finds Town Scales at Groton to be Out of Order

GROTON, Nov. 8.—The Groton families have been helped in bearing their share of the high cost of living by getting more than they paid for but they have just found it out. Some of them thought the reverse was the case and complained that local dealers had been giving them short weight on various purchases. A state inspector of weights and measures who came here this week to make an examination found that coal dealers who had been weighing their coal on the town scales had been making a gift to purchasers of 20 pounds on every load. Then he went the rounds of the stores and found that in nearly every case the store scales gave the customer from half an ounce to an ounce advantage.

M'COMBS TO ACCEPT POST

REPORTED THAT DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CHAIRMAN WILL BE AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Persons close to the White House said last night that William F. McCombs, chairman of the democratic national committee, who was married in London yesterday to Miss Dorothy Williams, would accept President Wilson's offer of the ambassadorship to France.

The post has been open to Mr. McCombs ever since the inauguration. He has twice declined it but there is every expectation now that he will soon accept the post and the president word of his acceptance.

In political circles it was generally believed that Mr. McCombs would become ambassador to France and resign the chairmanship of the democratic national committee. Talk of his successor already is being heard and the name of Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the president, has been suggested by national committeemen in Washington.

It was pointed out by some of those who are suggesting Mr. Tumulty that it would be essential in the choice of a national chairman to have some one who had the personal confidence of the president. Mr. Tumulty declined to talk about the subject.

As the democratic national chairman is not called upon usually for any extended work until the time arrives for the presidential campaign, acceptance of the post by Mr. Tumulty would not necessarily involve resigning his present position.

Mr. Andrew expects the backing of the fishing interests of Gloucester. He told the Globe correspondent at Gloucester last night that he had been urged by the commercial and other interests to enter the contest and he had decided to go in.

He has been a resident of Eastern Point, Gloucester, for several years. Before becoming assistant secretary of the treasury he was director of the mint and was secretary of the national monetary commission. He is a graduate of Princeton.

The candidates of Messrs. Saltonstall and Haskell of Beverly were announced yesterday morning, ex-Senator Arthur L. Nelson of Haverhill is likely to be in the progressive candidate. He made the run last fall.

FIVE BOYS RECAPTURED

Seven Escaped From Parental School in West Roxbury, Pursued by the Others

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Five of the seven boys who escaped from the West Roxbury Parental school, Thursday evening, have been returned to the institution and it is believed the other two will be found soon.

The boys escaped through a basement window during the temporary absence of their instructor, shortly after 9 o'clock, and were followed by a majority of the boys tried to hold them and when they were gone notified their instructor and joined in the pursuit.

Two of the fugitives were captured yesterday morning and three during the afternoon.

LADY LOOKABOUT

I recently heard a very interesting lecture upon hygiene in the public schools. The lecturer laid much stress on the prevalence of adenoids directly to overheated air—"baked air," he called it. Modern ventilating apparatus fans the heated air into the school rooms, and while it is true that the air is not impure, the moisture has been removed from it by the heating process.

Air contains a certain percentage of moisture and when this moisture is removed, the air seeks to replace it by attacking the moist membranes of the nose and throat. These membranes are overworked to keep up the supply of moisture, and hypertrophied tissues result.

Many physicians recommend operating for adenoids, but this lecturer claimed that except in very rare cases, operations are wholly unnecessary. Given proper breathing conditions, the morbid overgrowth will correct itself.

Adenoids, as they grow, press on the blood vessels which supply the brain, impairing the flow of blood to that organ. A child thus afflicted appears to be dull and stupid, but when the condition has been corrected, he becomes normal again, easily holding his own with his class-mates.

With all my heart I regret that every man in Lowell did not hear Dr. Anna Howard Shaw at the Middlesex Women's club last Monday afternoon. Her talk was on "The Relation of Woman to the Government," and as the press has already commented fully on it, I shall not attempt to reproduce it here. It was a most interesting and public, delivered in a sane, logical manner. As I sat there rapt in admiration for the mind which could produce the thoughts she delivered to us, and in admiration of that beautiful woman, I heard her say: "I am fifty-five years of age—my hair is white, but I am adding a beautiful dignity to her utterances. I said to myself—'The time is coming when man will look back on the period through which he is now passing, as to a dark age, unable to comprehend his own smallness of vision when he looked upon woman as a creature inferior to himself.'"

With the state election over and with our pulses once more ticking away normally, I wonder if this thought has come to any of you during the week. Lowell has something over 24,000 polls. This year the contest for governor was very spirited, and brought out an unusual vote, namely about 12,000. If suffrage were granted to the women of Lowell, and there were 24,000 eligible to vote and only 12,000 voted, would the anti's use the fact for capital by telling us that we were forcing the franchise upon the 12,000 who did not care to vote?

I am quoting the following that he who runs may read, and use as he may see fit. In the sense of the defeat of Levi H. Greenwood, president of the state senate, in the third Worcester senatorial district, was attributed in part to the active campaign of the suffragists, led by Attorney Theodore A. Crowley, assisted by Margaret Foley and Mrs. Mary Estlin. They camped on the trail of Greenwood from the start.

Mr. Greenwood, running for re-election was defeated by Edward Sibley, democrat, by 495 votes.

greenwood in his meetings, but after every Greenwood rally the suffragists were outside the door to address the crowd, as they came from the hall. Kefauy of speakers were employed and as women became exhausted there were others to take their places.

All the mills in the district were visited and over 30,000 circulars were distributed, giving the suffrage version of Greenwood's career.

They attacked him on his general record and claimed he had been against every law that had been suggested at the state house for the benefit of the working man.

If Mr. Otis W. Butler wants to be read sympathetic, he might send a note of genuine condolence to Mr. Greenwood.

Thank goodness the day of the enormous muff is over! No more shall we see the muff which covered its wearer from north to south and from east to west. The very latest is the barrel muff. The name refers to the shape, not to the size. The styles which are worn with coats are really lovely. Largely ninety inches, some of them and perfectly straight as to cut; and such beautiful combinations of fur, seal and ermine, mole and ermine, beaver and ermine, even Persian lamb and ermine—anyway combined with ermine is good style. The mode of the stoles are trimmed with rich, silk fringes, either in black, or matching the fur in color.

Fire-prevention day may be made a very fine institution if co-operation of the right sort be enlisted.

The proclamation issued by the mayor will not be worth the paper it is written on if those to whom it is addressed do not enter into the spirit of the occasion.

The day should be observed in the public schools by talks on fire prevention, for many of our fires are due to carelessness on the part of children.

Particularly should the fire inspectors make examination of the fire-escapes and exits, not alone on public buildings, but on factories and work-shops.

Not very long ago, in a neighboring state, a fire-inspector's attention was called to a violation of the statute governing exits in a factory in which hundreds of girls were employed. The exits were blocked by machinery and refuse to such an extent that they could not be used.

Again and again the inspector's attention was called to the matter, but his reply was: "That is a waste of time. It has no precedent. It would not stand the test of a case in court."

Fire broke out in the factory. The stair-case was cut off by flames. The exits could not be used and over one hundred girls perished like rats in a trap.

In the years gone by, a beautiful derelict for any possibility for fire was shown in the planning of buildings. Stair cases adjoined elevator wells, and fire escapes were, and in some cases still are, conspicuous by their absence.

Lowell has been singularly fortunate in the matter of serious fires for a long time, but this does not mean that we have not our share of buildings which may well be called death-traps. Foley and Mrs. Mary Estlin. They camped on the trail of Greenwood from the start.

Mr. Greenwood, running for re-election was defeated by Edward Sibley, democrat, by 495 votes.

GARDNER'S SEAT

Four Republicans Are Already in Line to Succeed Congressman

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Within 24 hours of the announcement by Congressman A. P. Gardner that he will retire from congress next summer to devote himself to his candidacy for governor four republicans have announced their candidacy for the nomination to succeed him in the 6th congressional district.

Those named candidates are: W. Scott Peters of Haverhill, formerly district attorney. A. Platt Andrew of Gloucester, who was assistant secretary of the treasury in the Taft administration. John L. Saltonstall of Beverly, ex-state representative. Ulysses H. Haskell of Beverly, formerly city solicitor.

In addition there is the prospect that John Hays Hammond of Gloucester will be a candidate and Mayor Herman A. MacDonald of Beverly is considering the advice of his friends that he enter the race.

"Because it is a little early to announce my candidacy," said Mr. Peters in his notice that he would make the run. "But as others have declared themselves I feel that my friends throughout the county ought to know my position. I have been urged several times to run for congress, but have refrained and as Congressman Gardner now intends to retire I will be in the combat."

Mr. Andrews expects the backing of the fishing interests of Gloucester. He told the Globe correspondent at Gloucester last night that he had been urged by the commercial and other interests to enter the contest and he had decided to go in.

He has been a resident of Eastern Point, Gloucester, for several years. Before becoming assistant secretary of the treasury he was director of the mint and was secretary of the national monetary commission. He is a graduate of Princeton.

POINTS OUT MURDERER

6-YEAR-OLD CHILD PICKS OUT MAN, WHO SHE SAYS, KILLED HER MOTHER

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Casomama Cifra, a 6-year-old child, whose mother was stabbed to death last Tuesday, yesterday pointed her finger at a man who stood among a score of other prisoners.

"That's the man," she said. Three attempts were made by the police to develop any doubt that might be in the child's mind, but she clung to her first assertion.

The prisoner gave his name as Philip Prescia, and said that he was at work at Argo, Ill., when the murder was committed.

CHILDREN HATE OIL, CALOMEL AND PILLS

"California Syrup of Figs" Best For Tender Stomach, Liver, Bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "doss" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

WE CARRY A COMPLETE LINE OF

The late Freeman B. Shedd of this city built the auxiliary ketch, Amber Jack, for use in the Bahamas, where he made his winter home. The Shedd estate, it was announced yesterday, has presented the yacht to Dr. Grenfell of Boston, who will use her in connection with the hospitals scattered along Labrador's bleak coast. The Amber Jack is a distinct addition to the Grenfell fleet and its purpose for which the missionary surgeon has long felt need.

Mr. Shedd, whose death occurred last March, was a prominent member of the Eastern, Boston and other yacht clubs. He owned the schooner Brenda, the sloop Recreation and other notable yachts, with home port at Marblehead. In these vessels he made extended cruises and annually visited most of the ports along the coast of Maine.

When Mr. Shedd's health became impaired he sought the Bahamas, and the Amber Jack was designed for him by Arthur Binney as a seaworthy craft for those oftentimes troublous waters. A body with Mr. Shedd was fishing and in the vicinity of the contract for building the yacht was awarded to J. Crosby of Oosterville and she was put in commission in 1905. The long passage to Nassau was undertaken by the Cape Cod skipper and helper, and the Amber Jack arrived at her destination safely.

The Shedd estate in presenting the Amber Jack to Dr. Grenfell stipulated that the name should not be changed, so the craft carries a reminder of a tropical fish into the icy water of the far north. Early next spring the yacht will be taken to Battle Harbor, the Grenfell base of supplies, perhaps by a crew of Harvard men who will volunteer services. The passage may be made in 10 days or, in advent of bad weather, may run into several weeks.

The Amber Jack is a keel craft of trunk cabin type, equipped with a 12-horse power motor, sails really being auxiliary, though in a following wind they enable the yacht to reef off the miles in splendid fashion. She registers 12 gross tons and is provided with ample cruising accommodations for several persons. Principal dimensions are 42.5 feet over all, 37.6 feet waterline, 11.5 feet beam, 4.10 feet depth of hull and 3.5 feet draft.

Desinger Binney chose a whaleboat form with rudder outboard, large watertight standing room and motor installed in the cabin, where it would be least likely to buck up in rough weather. With two colored sailors among the Bahamas and safely weathered severe storms. He had chartered a Bahama pilot boat for an extended period prior to building the Amber Jack, which was brought north shortly after his death.

TWO ALARM FIRE THE JOHN ELLIS CASE

At Everett - Patrolman Hit by the Fire Department Auto

EVERETT, Nov. 8.—Patrolman John Loneragan was struck by the automobile of Chief Joseph T. Swan when it was on its way to a two-alarm fire in South Everett at 6 o'clock. He was thrown several feet, knocked unconscious and received a severe wound in his head, minor bruises and possibly internal injuries.

The fire destroyed an old barn on Bow street, near the corner of Thornehill street, with a loss of about $1500, and menaced several houses.

When hit by the Auto Patrolman Loneragan was signaling to several autos approaching the intersection of the Revere Beach boulevard and Main street as the chief's auto was speeding down the latter street. As the machine, which was driven by Chief Swan personally, neared Loneragan he suddenly took several steps backward, too late for the chief to turn out, and he was struck by the wind shield. The force of the blow shattered the glass and bent the brass rods.

THE LOWELL ART CLUB

A meeting of the directors of the Lowell Art association was held at the Whistler house yesterday afternoon and the former officers, President Joseph A. Nesmith, and vice president Rev. Charles T. Billings were re-elected for another term. Treasurer Chase was also re-elected and he acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Wood.

President Nesmith reported that he had interviewed Sears Gallagher of Boston, a noted painter for an exhibition of his etchings probably early in December. This may be the opening attraction and it is planned to hold a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher.

It was voted to follow the usual custom of holding a sale of Lowell made goods in the Whistler house on December 8. A desire has, it seems been expressed for another exhibition of Whistler etchings and of the etchings of other well known painters during this coming season and arrangements will be started with a view to bringing this about.

The treasurer submitted an interesting financial report which showed a good condition of the finance department of the club.

Rev. Mr. Billings was empowered to provide a number of lectures, illustrated and otherwise, during the winter.

NEW REMEDY SAVES OLD FOLKS FROM KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

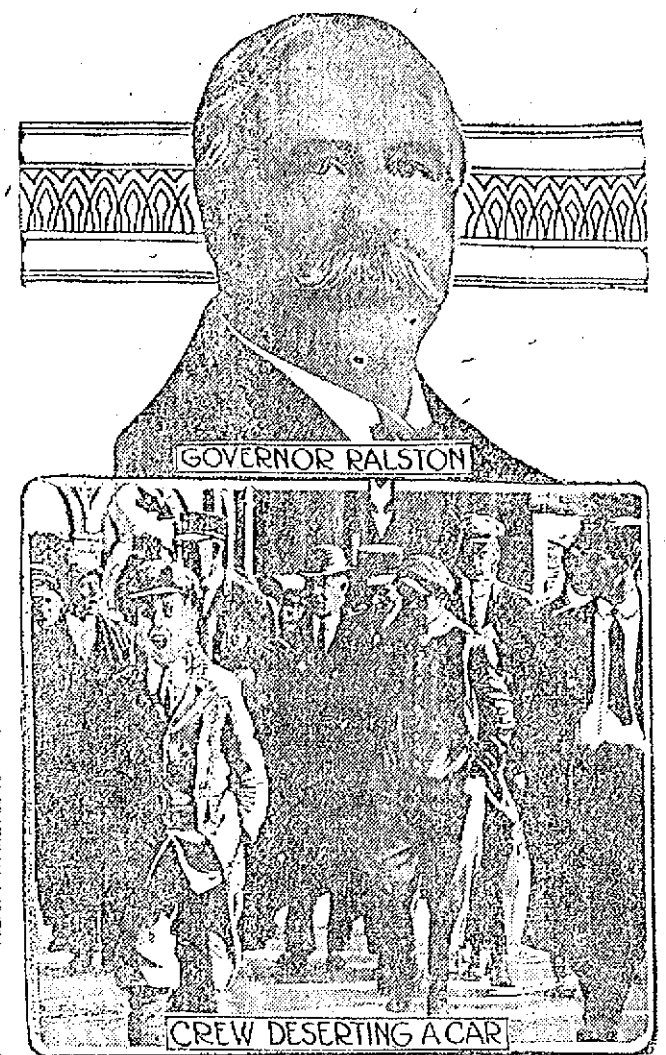

Sleep Disturbing Bladder Weakness, Backache, Stiff Joints, Rheumatic Pains Disappear After Few Doses are Taken

While people along in years are naturally more subject to weak kidneys, they can easily avoid the tortures of backache and rheumatism, and be saved the annoyance of getting up at night with disagreeable bladder disorders.

Croxone promptly overcomes all such troubles by making the kidneys filter the blood properly and rid it of the poisonous acids and waste matter that cause these troubles.

It cleans right in and cleans out the stopped up, inactive kidneys, dissolves and drives out the uric acid and other poisonous impurities that lodge in the

GOV. RALSTON OF INDIANA SETTLES INDIANAPOLIS STRIKE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—The strike of the employees of the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company was settled late yesterday through the efforts of Governor Samuel D. Ralston. The employees won their demand for arbitration, but nothing is said about recognition of the union in the terms of settlement.

Street car service is to be resumed within 12 hours, according to the terms of the settlement of the strike, which also provides against any further interference with the operation of cars.

All the men who were in the employ of the company Friday night, Oct. 31, when the strike was called, and all employees who had been discharged on account of joining the union are to be reinstated by the company with full seniority rights and without prejudice.

The company, however, is not committed to reinstate anyone who engaged in violence during the strike, but the refused men may appeal to the Public

M. A. C. Certified Milk Best in Country - To Get Gold Medal

AMHERST, Nov. 8.—Prof. J. A. Foord announced yesterday that he has received word that the Massachusetts Agricultural college has been awarded the gold medal at the National Dairy show, held in Chicago, for the best certified milk, in competition with the whole United States.

The first report was that the Massachusetts college was tied with Washington State college, but a careful investigation showed that the Massachusetts milk had 100 less bacteria a cubic centimeter than that of Washington.

house by means of the cellar door. The thief was battered in with an axe and strange to say the noise seemed to attract no one in the vicinity. His method of gaining an entrance into the kitchen from the cellar was the same. A small hole was cut in the door so that he could reach through and unfasten the bolt which held it.

Mr. Valliant and his wife left home shortly after 1 o'clock in their auto and did not return until after three o'clock. The thief was probably in the vicinity of the house when the machine left the garage and, deciding that the house was empty, boldly broke his way in. The axe with which he forced his entrance, was later found upon the floor of one of the bedrooms.

Mrs. Potter stated last night that she saw a man enter the Valliant cellar by way of the bulkhead early yesterday afternoon. She did not pay particular attention to him, thinking that he was doubtless a man in the employ of Mr. Valliant and engaged in cleaning up the cellar. She described him as a young man of medium height and neat appearance. He was dressed in dark clothes and light shoes and carried a small leather bag.

Mr. Valliant gave over a list of articles missing from his house to the police last night. Besides 16 in expensive two gold watches, several stock pins, earrings, cuff links and other minor articles of jewelry were taken by the thief.

Although the fact remains that the thief carried a bag he could not have been possessed of a burglar's craft or he would never have taken the risk he incurred by using an axe to break in the door. Circumstances point toward the amateur instead of the professional for in all of the breaks there appear the same rough symptoms that an expert never leaves behind him.

LOWELL YOUNG MAN IN CHINA SPANKING WIFE

Reginald Smith is Deputy Consul and Marshal in Chefoo

Was Formerly Connected With Internal Revenue Dept. in Manila

He Says Chefoo is a Beautiful Place and He is Quite Contented

The many friends of Reginald F. Smith of this city will be pleased to learn that he is happy and prosperous in the flower kingdom. Reginald was home about two years or so ago from the Philippines and spent several weeks here. He is the son of the late Dr. Herman J. Smith and brother of Dr. Foster H. Smith and Carroll Smith.

The latter arrived in Lowell a few weeks ago from California, having made the trip by automobile.

Reginald Smith was connected with the bureau of internal revenue at Manila, P. I., and had been there several years. He resigned that position some time ago to accept the position of deputy consul and marshal in Chefoo, China. This position will put him in line for a transfer to some other post as full consul, and Reginald is not in the habit of allowing grass to grow under his feet when he can see better things ahead.

He has a good knowledge of Spanish, speaks it fluently, and he ought to stand a good chance to get a consularship in some Spanish speaking country, after he has passed the necessary examinations. This might mean his transfer to South America which will become very important soon owing to the opening of the canal.

In a letter to his mother, dated September 13th, Reginald tells of his arrival at Chefoo and says it is a most delightful spot. He says that all of the men and women in Chefoo go in for sports of every description. Tennis, swimming, horseback riding and yacht racing, he says, seem to be the most popular.

"They say it gets awfully cold here in winter," Reginald says in his letter to his mother, "but the spring and summer should certainly pay up for it. Just now we are getting fine Bartlett pears, apples, peaches and grapes. They seem awfully good to me because we never had them in the Philippines. There is a fine bathing beach here and plenty of good fishing."

marked that there wouldn't be street corners enough in Lowell to accommodate such a plethora of candidates and she allowed that some of them would have to take to the house tops.

"There are street corners enough, but there is great danger that the supply of soap boxes will run short," said a policeman, standing at her side.

"Well, I'll wager," said the spirited little woman, "that the fellow speaking from the soap box will get more votes than the fellow who speaks from the automobile," and the bleatant answered her a word.

John B. Clancy on Deck

John B. Clancy, one of Lowell's perennial candidates, was on deck bright and early and John D's papers were loaded with signatures.

Mr. Clancy left Assistant City Clerk McCarthy in a few "intents." John said that he has erected a platform at his barn on West street for the accommodation of himself and other candidates. "I will hold open house Wednesday afternoon," said John, "and everybody's welcome. I will invite all of the candidates and any of my neighbors who are not candidates but who feel like making a little speech will be welcome. The candidates should come out and declare themselves. The voter is entitled to an opportunity to size up the man who seeks his vote. I am ready to discuss any and all issues. I have had experience in about all of the departments connected with the municipal government and I feel as if I could serve my city faithfully and well."

"You never had any experience in the finance department, did you?" ventured Mr. McCarthy, and John B. replied: "Well, once upon a time I belonged to an association and we called ourselves the guards. The fundamental principle of that association was that no lazy or extravagant man could be a guard. So you see what I mean by that."

Mr. McCarthy accepted the apology and the incident was closed. Mr. Clancy is a candidate for alderman.

Alderman Barrett stated today that all water department work mapped out for the present year would be cleaned up before the snow flies unless Jack Frost should put in an appearance unexpectedly. The department will move into Westford street where a 16-in. main will be laid from Chelmsford street to the corner of Westford and Pine streets. It houses along the line of improvements need new services they will be put in and all flush hydrants will be changed to post hydrants. The pipe to be laid in Appleton street will be a continuation of the Appleton street main connecting with the Church street main laid last year.

All streets in Little Canada have been connected with the big 24-inch main that was stretched across the Merrimack river a short time ago and work on the continuation of that line in Adams street will be finished in a little while. It was stated today that the department would get through with the Gorham street job next week. The Gorham street job consisted of taking out a six-inch pipe and putting a 12-inch pipe in its stead. The water department is also laying a 12-inch pipe in Plain street.

MESSRS. JOHN J. HOGAN AND FRED E. JONES OF THIS CITY ATTENDED RECEPTION

Hon. John J. Hogan, supreme trustee of the Royal Arcanum and Mr. Fred E. Jones, grand warden, have returned from a visit to Springfield, the occasion being a reception to Supreme Regent Frank B. Wickersham, of Haverhill, Pa., by the councils of Springfield and vicinity. The affair was held under the auspices of Equity council No. 4. Four hundred members, including many supreme officers and grand officers from the jurisdictions of Massachusetts and Connecticut, were present and witnessed the conferring of the degree on thirty-four candidates.

FALL RIVER MILLS

FALL RIVER, Nov. 8.—It was announced today that the unions of the carders, the weavers, and the slasher tenders of the local cotton mills would meet next Wednesday night and formulate demands for an increase in wages.

The demands will be submitted first to the textile council, the central organization of the textile unions for approval.

O.K. in Brooklyn When the Mother Interferes With Punishment

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—If a father has a right to spank a child (it being his child) he also has a right to spank that child's mother (she being his wife), provided that Spankee No. 2 tries to interfere with him in spanking No. 1.

"That is, he seems to have the right, in Brooklyn. At least, one spanker got away with it over there yesterday."

Luther Sisson, who's an ice man and lives at No. 224 Fulton street, had occasion on Friday to turn one of his youngsters over to a friend for a little parental admonition delivered with the same hand that wields the tongs and hurls the crystal blocks upon the dumbwaiter.

Mrs. Sisson remonstrated, whereupon the purveyor of the Kenebunk (the last syllable right, anyhow) still took his spouse, turned her over his knee and administered to her the same treatment that he had delivered to their son.

Yesterday morning she had him arrested and taken before Magistrate McGuire in the New Jersey avenue court. She testified that it wasn't so much the physical pain of the spanking she objected to as it was the humiliation of being held, while said Arcite spanking was being delivered in an unwholesome position.

Sisson, upon being asked to explain, said that he felt he had a right to administer the good old-fashioned corrective measures to any member of his family.

His Honor, Magistrate McGuire, didn't exactly disagree. First, he told Mrs. Sisson she mustn't interfere with her husband. Then he told Sisson that he must do it again. Finally he suspended sentence. The Sissons left court together.

HARVARD AND PRINCETON THE HIGH SCHOOL-TEXTILE ELEVENS

Athletes and Athletics

Line up on University Field at Princeton, N. J., This Afternoon
for Annual Football Game

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—The first of the triangular series of football games between Harvard, Yale and Princeton will be played on University Field here this afternoon, when the eleven of Harvard and Princeton meet in their annual gridiron battle. This contest, the eighteenth between the teams of the two institutions since the introduction of intercollegiate football as a varsity sport, is expected to produce play of high type. Both elevens are nearing the climax of their respective seasons and should display par gridiron form. The game also possesses possibilities when considered in connection with the eastern championship struggle. Harvard faces the Tigers with a record unmarred by defeat. Princeton, although defeated by Dartmouth, can still complicate the situation by either tying or defeating the Crimson.

These conditions, augmented by the fact that the game is the first one of the home season and ranks as one of the football classics of the year, has created unusual interest in the fair of the Tiger. Jungletown, as Princeton is frequently termed in song and cheer, is in the throes of ante-game enthusiasm. The Orange and Black of "Old Nassau" and the Crimson of Harvard flutter from hundreds of windows, and the wise shopkeeper, playing no favorites, has decorated every available point of vantage under his jurisdiction with the colors of the competing colleges, hoping thereby to reap financial benefits from home and invading clans. Classmen and alumni of both institutions are recording in song and story the prowess of their teams and in honor of the occasion Princeton has veiled her academic solemnity for the coming twenty-four hours.

In these scenes of celebrating the squads of players representing the rival universities have no part. Neither coaches nor captains care to forecast the result, but the enthusiastic undergraduate supporters of the elevens are not so conservative. Loyal expressions of opinion lead to arguments, and controversy to wagering, and there is many a little envelope tucked away in town-folk safes, which records the fact that Harvard adherents are giving slight odds on the Crimson to triumph over the Orange and Black.

Much persuasion is necessary to secure these slight concessions in odds. Harvard, despite her splendid football record during recent years, has suffered many and surprising reverses at the hands of the Tiger. Since the series began way back in 1877, Princeton has won thirteen of the seventeen games played. For years the Crimson has not won a game in Princeton, and it is upon this peculiar fact that the Tiger cohorts are banking, since on the season's playing the Cambridge eleven appears a more formidable aggregation than the one led by Captain Baker.

Judging from the play during the preliminary period of the season, the Harvard line is stronger both on offense and defense than that of Princeton. The backfield, composed of Brickley, Mahan, Hardwick and Logan, is a better all-round combination than the Tigers' quartet, consisting of the callers of Brickley, and "Hober" Baker's broken field runs should be duplicated by the Harvard trio of backs, since the Tiger fullback appears to be of the penetrating type of Hart and Wendell, and the Crimson has not been able, to date, to find a player capable of filling the latter's place in this respect.

The probable line-up of the two teams with the physical statistics of players follows:

BROWN CLASHES WITH YALE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 8.—The Brown football team, which spent the night in Hartford preparatory to today's game with the Yale eleven came to New Haven this morning. Coach Robinson said his men were in prime condition. The Brown undergraduates openly expressed their confidence that Yale would be defeated as was the case three years ago.

In the Yale camp the feeling prevailed that the Blue smarting from its defeat by Colgate last week and a storm of caustic criticism that followed would "come back" in typical bulldog fashion.

During the past week the coaches let up on the scrimmaging work as in the Colgate game the men gave evidence of being trained too fine physically. Only two scrimmages were held during the week.

The loss of Cornish at quarter has served to seriously set back the offensive work, although Wilson, who ran the team today, has done well considering his short experience. Captain Ketchum showed his versatility as a player by holding down the right end, the third position he has played this year. He was shifted from guard to a strengthened weak wing position. Dave Dunn, who played fullback two years ago, occupied Wilson's position today. This was the first game he had played this year, only recently being declared eligible. Some of Yale's first string men, who have been out on account of injuries, were back in the lineup.

CORNELL AND MICHIGAN

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 8.—A record-breaking crowd is in Ithaca today for the annual football battle between Cornell and Michigan. Several hundred Michigan rooters arrived here last night accompanied by a brass band. Cornell's eleven is in excellent condition and will line up the same day with the exception that John J. O'Hearn, Cornell's star, will be missing. O'Hearn is at his home in Brooklyn, Mass., recovering from a severe injury suffered in the Harvard game. His place will be taken by P. J. McHaffey.

Crashed in the Bowling
Alleys Last Night—McCormack Won

The feature of the bowling last night was the match ten string game between McCormack and McCarthy in a close game and defense than that of Princeton. The backfield, composed of Brickley, Mahan, Hardwick and Logan, is a better all-round combination than the Tigers' quartet, consisting of the callers of Brickley, and "Hober" Baker's broken field runs should be duplicated by the Harvard trio of backs, since the Tiger fullback appears to be of the penetrating type of Hart and Wendell, and the Crimson has not been able, to date, to find a player capable of filling the latter's place in this respect.

All skills of the game were the allers last evening and a close pulled the contest out after a hard battle, the last string deciding the victory.

CAPT. "JAKE" CULLEN
High School Team

As is only natural when two schools have a home in the same city there is always intense rivalry existing between the various athletic teams of the two institutions and the local schools, Lowell Textile and Lowell High, are no exception to the rule.

Early in the season an effort was made by the high school athletic authorities to arrange a game between the two institutions but the Textile school did not want the game.

The high school and Textile teams have met several times in years past and the best of feelings have not existed during the time that the two teams were scrimmaging on the field and for some time before and after the game. This fact has probably had a bearing on the calling off of the contest as an annual event.

If the Textile-High school game was made a feature of each season's gridiron schedule it would be a great boon for the sport here in Lowell. Undoubtedly Textile would be the big beneficiary by the game for the high school already has two big games, Haverhill and Lawrence, contests, which net the athletic treasury a neat sum while the Moody street institution is a heavy loser every fall.

Although the Textile school is composed of older students than those of

should not be fairly matched each year.

On paper and judging by the season's records so far, the High school team has the edge on Textile eleven this year. In a game between the two aggregations Lowell high would probably be returned the winner by at least two scores.

Taken man for man, the High school boys are superior. Greer, at center, is the best man in the Textile line although Captain Fisher, when in condition, is also good. Corbett, the High school snapper-back, is an exceptionally hard playing schoolboy and Greer would have nothing on him in a contest.

Captain Fisher and either Kyle or Dover at the two guard positions would have their hands full and a little more in Ferguson and Dural. The High school guards are both powerful linemen and use their powerful linemen and use their powerful linemen to good advantage. The High school center trio would have a shade on their opponents in a contest between the two schools.

The tackle positions are dead open and shut propositions. Andrews and Coleman are both inferior to Captain Cullen and McInnis. Although Captain "Jake" is injured at present his place has been filled quite well by Cahill, who was shifted from end to tackle, and he, as well as the two regulars, is superior to the two Textile tacklers. In offense as well as defense the High school boys would be the better.

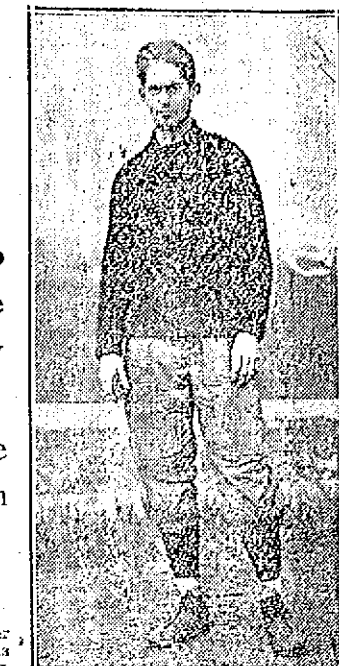

Roane and Cahill on the wings make a strong pair of ends for the High school. Lane, however, is a fast man and is into every play. If this player only tackled lower and dove at his man instead of waiting for him he would surpass both Lowell High ends because he is heavier and stronger. As the facts stand out today Roane is the surest tackler although he is very light, and Cahill is also better than Lane. McGowan, the other Textile end, is not in the same class with his running mate. Desmond is light but a good tackler.

CAPTAIN FISHER
Of Textile Eleven

At quarter, Snyder stands head and shoulders above Summersby. Snyder excels the Textile quarter in individual work. He is a better runner in a broken field and catches punts with greater certainty. Neither field general has a good head for his position but it must be said Snyder that he injects the necessary lightning spirit into his team which counts for a great deal in a close contest.

Bennett at full-back is a mighty clever school boy backer but Crawford of Textile is heavier and as fast and can hit an opposing line with better results. On the other hand Crawford is not as sure and consistent as Bennett and fumbles frequently. It would be a hard toss-up to choose between these two.

Mitchell and Brunelle are both hard working backs and both are very fast. Brunelle is the equal of any back who has played here this season and very few half backs in the state can compare with him. Mitchell, however, has had more experience than the High school boy and plays a headier game on that account. The Textile left half will have to be handed the palm when

High School's Great Defensive Back

It comes to picking out the classiest back on either team.

Bowers at the other half-back position is way and ahead of Gilley. The High school boy is faster and follows his interference to perfection. Bowers is also a greater aid to his team on the defensive than is Gilley. Thus, man for man, the High school team looks up ahead of Textile. Again the fact that the High school boys made every work of the Lawrence Academy team while Textile only managed to tie the team, makes Lowell High appear much stronger than Lowell Textile this year.

$20,000 FOR BIRING A MOTHER
Mrs. Elizabeth Rittenhouse, wife of Dr. O. N. Rittenhouse of 429 Van Houten street, Paterson, N. J., came into possession of $20,000 the other day because she is 25 years old and has a baby.

The money was in a trust fund left by her grandfather, Cornelius Terhune, and the will imposing the conditions was made by the testator when Mrs. Rittenhouse was eight years old.

The fund originally was $5000. Terhune bequeathed the income to his widow and provided in his will that the fund should go to his granddaughter when she became 25 years old, provided she had a child. Yesterday Jos. McDonald, executor of the estate, went before Judge Klenert in the orphan's court and applied for permission to turn the fund over to Mrs. Rittenhouse. The Judge signed the order.

Many Lowell people have gone to Exeter, N. H., today to witness the annual Exeter-Andover game. The New Hampshire team is doped as the winner of this season's contest but the Andover eleven can be depended upon to spring a surprise on their rival before the whistle blows for time in the final period.

Reports from Manchester have it that Young McDonough will soon be back in the roped arena. McDonough has been working at his trade of steam fitting and is in fine physical condition. He has asked Dan Gallagher, the Manchester promoter, to give him a whirl at Freddie Yelle and will not be satisfied with anything else. It would seem more reasonable for McDonough to tackle somebody a trifle less tough on his second debut.

The weak Brown team is confident that they will win today's game from Yale. After the job that Colgate did on the Lulldog, Brown thinks that with her this year's squad, she can score another victory. If Brown beats Yale today there will be nothing less than a slaughter occur when Harvard and Yale meet.

Dartmouth undergraduates are all confident that their eleven will put it on to Penn this afternoon at Franklin field. The coaches, however, are less optimistic and have repeatedly warned their men that the Penn team is not to be underestimated. Penn is a very different proposition on her own field than away from home and will play to stands filled with their rooters. It is either team's game.

Five teams were still tied this morning in the six day bike race at the Boston arena. Today is when the real sprinting will develop. One of those five leading pairs is going to wear down the endurance of the others and walk home a winner. Collins and

TO CELEBRATE FARM LIFE
So fundamental is the upbuilding of rural life, in the opinion of Dr. P. J. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, that the observance in the schools of one day each year as "Agriculture and Rural Life Day" should become a national custom. Instead of being confined to a few states, as at present, "We can do without some of our anniversaries, if need be," says Dr. Claxton, "to have time for the children in our schools should be given an opportunity to pause in their regular work and consider the significance of agriculture and rural life; the worth and nobility of the life of the soil; and the beauty and glory of simple and sane life in the open country."

Dr. Claxton points out that in several states "Agriculture and Rural Life Day" has already been introduced into the schools, at the suggestion of the bureau of education. In other states exercises appropriate to the purpose are held in connection with Arbor day, Thanksgiving day, or the Harvest Home celebration. In order to aid in the proper observance of the day, under whatever name it may be celebrated, the bureau of education has just issued a bulletin containing material that can be used by teachers and others in arranging an interesting program.

Fittingly prefaced with the "County Boy's Creed," the bulletin includes sections on man's struggle for food; the Root are looked upon as the favorites because they seem the freshest team and have not yet begun to weaken. Root and McNamara are another dangerous pair.

The Teck cross country team had little difficulty in walking away with the dual run with Holy Cross yesterday. The Worcester college was outclassed badly by the long legs of their opponents. Holy Cross has only taken the game up recently but is making great strides and should be heard from another year.

Dunbar, the Dartmouth center, is one of the few light men who have ever played the position on a big college eleven. Dunbar weighs only 164 pounds and is opposed by a man who tips the scales at 188. Pat Grant, Harvard's All-American center, was the first man to demonstrate that weight is not always a necessary factor in the snapper-back position.

The Notre Dame team is raising havoc with some of the eastern colleges. The westerners beat West Point and yesterday handed out a beating to the Penn State team. This is the first eastern trip that the Notre Dame eleven ever made.

Danny Brunelle will captain the High school team until Jake Cullen gets back into harness once more. Brunelle will make a good leader and knows the fine points of the game. It is hoped that Captain Cullen will be in shape to enter the Lowell-Haverhill game.

BIG WIRELESS STATION

The largest and most powerful wireless station in the world is being erected in Newcastle, N. B., a picturesque city, overlooking the Miramichi river at a point near where the south-west and north-west branches of that beautiful river join forces on their way to the sea. Newcastle is in the heart of the life game country and various industries have been cropping up there of late. The coming of the big wireless station, however, is the most interesting of all the new things that have arrived. The station is being built for the Universal Radio syndicate and when completed will have direct communication with a corresponding station on the west coast of Ireland. The writer was in Newcastle about three weeks ago and was very much interested in the new station which is now well under way. The wireless plant occupies a position near the railroad station and on an elevation of 50 feet from the water. The people in Newcastle are very much alive to the possibilities of the new station and the writer was told that the government has an arrangement with the Radio syndicate whereby the government, at the end of five years, will have the power to take the whole service from the syndicate and operate it as a government work. The station comprises an immense steel tower and six auxiliary towers. At the foot of the steel tower, foundations are being prepared for the administration building which will be a building with a concrete basement and upper structure of concrete blocks 192 feet long by 35 feet wide. This will provide accommodation for the general offices, two operating rooms, one for sending and the other for receiving messages, and offices for other purposes. Between the central tower and the International railroad, which is close by, the power house is being built. This is a building also of concrete base and concrete upper structure, 55 feet by 45, and 50 feet from the ground floor to the eaves. The power house will be equipped with powerful oil engines. Between the central steel tower, 500 feet high, and the six auxiliary towers, 100 feet high, will be stretched a network of copper wire. From 120,000 to 150,000 feet will be used, the whole forming when completed a mammoth skeleton umbrella. Another 100,000 feet of wire is laid in trenches around the towers to furnish proper "grounding." The steel tower was built in England and was shipped in sections to Newcastle. This station, The Sun man was informed, will be the most powerful wireless station in the world, though at present the station at San Francisco, which communicates with Honolulu, 2,500 miles away, enjoys that distinction. The San Francisco station is rated as a 30 kilowatt station with a voltage of 550 and covers 25 acres, while the station at Newcastle will be a 100-kilowatt station with a voltage of 1,000, covering 54 acres. The distance across the Atlantic to the corresponding station now in course of construction at Ballyvaughan on the southwest coast of Ireland, will be about 2,700 miles, so if the smaller station at San Francisco is able to operate satisfactorily over 2,500 miles, the more powerful one at Newcastle should have no difficulty in covering 2,700 miles over the Atlantic.

The resident engineer, Mr. E. W. Sawyer, talked very interestingly of the new station and the wireless telegraph is founded on the discovery made many years ago by a German scientist named Hertz, that electric magnetic impulses could be made to travel great distances through the air, and these impulses were called after their discoverer, "Hertzian waves." For many years Marconi and other scientists have been experimenting with these waves with the idea of perfecting a system that would turn them to practical use and the world knows how well they have succeeded. The system, however, which will be used at the Newcastle station was invented by Dr. Valdemar Poulsen, a distinguished Danish scientist, and differs fundamentally from the others, differs very materially from them in many essential features. Briefly the difference is this: The Marconi system makes signals by closing and breaking on electric circuit. Every dot and dash signal represents an independent electric current impulse transmitted through the air, while the Poulsen system makes signals by varying at the will of the sending operator the elec-

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Hous are on a strike. They can't be taken forced to work to meet the demand, and so they supply. They simply have not the disposition and will not respond to the anticipation and need of the cooperation.

The price was 12 cents a bushel, but the supply, though meagre, now seems certain to become less.

Labor Man Condemns His Vote of Immigration Bill Last Year

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 8.—Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, addressing the Western Labor Immigration congress, yesterday denounced ex-President Taft for vetoing the immigration bill passed a year ago, and declared that employers who opposed this bill were bent on "tearing down the civilization of the country to fatten their own purses."

Mr. Morrison predicted an enormous flow of European immigrants to the Pacific coast through the Panama canal. "When these strangers come—500,000 to 1,000,000 of them the first year," he said, "they will have to find work. If they can't get $3.00 a day they will take less, possibly 50 cents, or just enough to buy bread and avoid starvation. By admitting these people you are not only hurting yourself but the nations from which they come. If conditions are bad here, the only way they will ever be bettered will be by forcing the dissatisfied workers to remain and fight their own way to victory."

President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, in urging that the trades union exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition be a good one, said it had virtually been agreed that there would be no convention of the federation next year and that the 1916 convention should be held in San Francisco early in the year.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—George Korkas, a Greek waiter who has in the past three years worked in many Boston hotels, yesterday reported to the police that he had been flim-flammed by two men, who worked the old handkerchief confidence game on him.

The men got $325, which Korkas drew from the Wilby Savings bank in order that he could go with them to Mexico, where there was all kinds of money, according to the men.

Korkas says he met one of the strangers in Washington street, near Kneeland, where he confided in the man, telling him of the amount of money he possessed. Another man was introduced to him, and after he drew the money from the bank Korkas put it in a handkerchief.

In the handkerchief one of the strangers placed $600—thoroughly and Korkas was made treasurer. He was given the package of money and they started for Mexico. When the trio came to a building where there were two entrances, one of the men went inside. A short time later the other went to look for him.

Korkas waited, but when they did not return he went to look for them. When they could be found, he went to Station 4 and opened his bundle, which he found contained waste paper.

ROOSEVELT NO LONGER A POLITICAL FACTOR, SAYS SEN. LA FOLLETTE OF WISCONSIN

Theodore Roosevelt has passed as a political factor, according to a statement made by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin at Atlanta, Ga. Asked as to the future of the progressive party, Senator La Follette said:

"What do you mean, progressive party? Do you mean the future of a great progressive party that is going to be brought forth for the next campaign, or do you mean that offshoot from the republican party that had Roosevelt for its candidate last year?"

Points to Results in Jersey

Assured that the Roosevelt organization was meant, La Follette said:

"The result in New Jersey just about answers your question. The progressive vote in the national election was about 140,000 as I remember it. The progressive vote in this election was only 40,000."

"There you have it. It is the same all over the country. I imagine. The progressive vote in the national election was said to be a 'Roosevelt vote,' but to me it was not a Roosevelt vote at all. It was simply a vote of protest against the conditions in the two big parties."

"The republican party will be reorganized on progressive lines and the so-called Roosevelt vote will return. The reorganized republican party will be no one man organization, but will have the progressive plank which practically every student of political science agrees should be there."

Referring to the New York city election La Follette said:

"I don't believe Tammany can come back. The people are done with bosses of the Quay, Platt and Murphy type."

"Tammany can only come back as a clean organization."

NEW PARISH HOME

Plans Are Completed For the Erection of Building in St. Anne's Parish—Orphanage to Undergo Repairs
All plans are now in readiness for the construction of a new parish home for St. Anne's church, and it is believed work will be started soon. Plans have been drawn by the architect in charge and the bids have been received but the contract remains to be awarded.

According to plans, a large hall will be erected in back of the old Edison orphanage, with its main entrance in Kirk street. The structure will be one story with basement, this to be used as a dining room for the various organizations of the church, while the main auditorium will be used for meetings, conventions and entertainments.

It is also proposed to have the orphanage undergo a thorough renovation. During the coming week committees will be formed to raise the capital needed for the enterprise.

"NEW HOMELAND"

Was Subject of Greek Speaker From Haverhill at the Green School Last Night
The Greek men and boys who attend the evening classes of the Mann and Green schools met in the hall of the latter school last night and listened to an interesting lecture on the "New Homeland," which was delivered by K. G. Smyrniotes, a teacher in the evening schools in Haverhill.

The affair had been arranged by Messrs. Shaw and Mahoney of Lawrence, civil secretaries of the North American Civic League, and the result was very gratifying to these men. The lecture was illustrated and greatly pleased the large audience.

PRAYER ANSWERED, SHE DIES

Mrs. Winifred Butler Lennon, wife of Mayor James J. Lennon of Yonkers, whose long illness took a serious turn two weeks ago and who prayed that she might live to see her husband re-elected, died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning at her home, 30 High street, 24 hours after she heard of his election for a third term by a larger plurality than ever before.

Mrs. Lennon, who was born in Brooklyn, was 43 years old. Besides her husband, five daughters and four sons, the oldest of whom is 15, survive her.

Two years ago she was stricken with an incurable malady. When her condition became critical a fortnight ago and her death was looked for hourly she prayed that she might live until she witnessed the triumph she was confident would come to her husband. He received the returns at her bedside, and when his election was assured at midnight she was the first to congratulate him. Then she insisted that the parade of democratic celebration his election should pass the house.

Mrs. Lennon was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church, where the funeral will be held on Saturday morning.

Did you see it in THE SUN last night? Of course you did. THE SUN prints today's news today, not yesterday's news.

THE NATIONAL GRANGE

MEETING TO BE HELD AT MANCHESTER, N. H., NEXT TUESDAY. LOWELL PEOPLE TO ATTEND

The annual convention of the National Grange will be opened in Manchester, N. H., next Tuesday and will last two weeks. The grangers of Manchester and the towns in that vicinity are making great preparations for the event which will probably be the greatest of its kind ever held in this part of the country.

Last night Oliver Wilson of Peoria, Ill., national master of the Patrons of Husbandry, who is to preside at the convention, passed through this city en route to Manchester. On his arrival at the latter city he was welcomed by a number of grangers and others interested in the work.

The main streets of the beautiful city are being decorated for the occasion and Manchester will be a mass of bunting by the first of the week. A large sign, 50x20 feet, has been placed opposite the Union station and it will bear the following inscription: "Welcome, Grangers, to Manchester, the Home of Big Industries." The names of several well known Manchester firms will be displayed.

Thursday will be "Lowell Day" at the convention and it is expected that a number of grangers from this city and the suburban towns will be present. The seventh degree will be conferred on that day and it is expected that thousands of visitors will attend the sessions. There will be but two public sessions in connection with the grange convention. There will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

NEWS OF ST. MARGARET'S PARISH The members of the choir of St. Margaret's church held a meeting last evening and completed arrangements for the whist party and dances which are to be held under their auspices in Highland club hall on Nov. 13. The officers elected to take charge were: General manager, Cornelius C. Calnan; assistant, Frank McCarthy; floor director, James Knowles.

There will be a business meeting of the members of the Holy Name society in the church on next Tuesday evening, according to an announcement made by Rev. Fr. Galligan today. Important matters will come up for discussion and action.

GIRL STUDENTS' CONVENTION PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Swimming contests, teas, and a vaudeville show by Swarthmore co-eds were events today in the convention of the Intercollegiate association for self government which terminates tonight at Swarthmore.

Fifty one girl delegates representing virtually every important girls' college in the east are attending the convention, which began yesterday.

The object of the conference is to exchange ideas on the promotion of class and college spirit. Self-government was the predominant topic under discussion today. Officers of the association are Miss Constance Ball of Swarthmore, president; Miss Margaret Cushing of Vassar, secretary; Miss Dorothy Gwynne of Syracuse, vice president and treasurer.

Y.M.C.I. May Take Definite Steps to Form a Debating Society

With the approaching cold weather the members of the Young Men's Catholic Institute are making plans for a very active winter season. Tomorrow morning there will be the usual weekly meeting of the society at the rooms in Stackpole street at 11 o'clock and one of the principal matters which will come up for discussion and action will be the forming of a debating society, which was recently proposed by some of the members.

The advantages which a debating society would open to those interested in furthering their general knowledge is apparent to a large number of the members, and hence the interest shown. By a careful choosing of topics for argument, the authorities of such a society could direct the attention of the participants along channels wherein they would acquire not only valuable and practical information regarding current events, needs and conditions of the country and of the world in particular, but would at the same time gain confidence in themselves, oratorical ability, foresight and certain powers of research, all of which would be most valuable to them.

Another circumstance which adds to the eagerness of the members for the forming of a debating society is the fact that already the Burkes and the Matthews and the members of the C. Y. M. I. have such a course under consideration and a series of intersociety debates could be arranged.

There is no doubt that debates between these clubs and societies would be the drawing cards for the members and would be a means of stimulating interest.

On Tuesday evening the regular weekly ladies' night will be held with the usual program of entertainment, including dancing. Thus successful events have proven and sufficient well patronized to warrant their continuance.
